

34 Killed in Airliner Crash Into Mountain

British Stewardess,
Co-Pilot Give First
Word of Tragedy

Bolton, England — (P) — A chartered British airliner with 42 persons aboard smashed against a snow-covered mountain today only five minutes from its destination. A policeman at the scene said 34 persons perished.

An injured stewardess, the only woman aboard, and the co-pilot struggled through knee-deep snow to a television relay station on top of the mountain and gasped out the first word of the disaster.

Helicopters, snowplows and mountain rescue teams sped through a blizzard to the scene. The twin-engine Bristol Wayfarer operated by Silver City Airways, was carrying automobile dealers from the Isle of Man in the Irish sea on a one-day junket to Manchester, only 15 miles from here, to inspect a plant of the Exide Battery Co.

Tell of Crash

Wisecracking and jovial, the party of 39 businessmen boarded the plane at Isle of Man airport for the 100-mile flight, some waving goodbyes to wives and children. There was a crew of three aboard.

Thirty-five minutes later, with visibility cut by heavy clouds and the blizzard, the plane smashed to bits against "Winter Hill," near the bleak moorlands of Lancashire and only 400 yards from a lonely TV tower manned by five engineers.

Treasury Bureau Wins Praise for Economy Efforts

Washington — (P) — The house appropriations committee today commended the treasury department for "a valiant effort to stem the tide of ever increasing government costs and employment."

Then it recommended a nominal cut of $2,240,000 in the department's request for $699,367,000 in new appropriations for the fiscal year starting July 1.

The committee's praise of the department was contained in a report sending to the house floor for debate next week a bill to finance the treasury and post office departments for the next year.

It recommended $697,120,000 for the treasury department, $3,402,000,000 for the post office department and $1,481,000 for the U. S. tax court.

The tax court got what it requested. The post office department was cut $19,121,000 but was allotted $77 million more than it was given this year.

The treasury department's fund was $2,440,000 less than the agency received this year. It asked for $200,000 less.

Blimp Breaks Away From Its Mooring

Lakehurst, N. J. — (P) — A gusty 40-mile-an-hour wind wrenched an experimental blimp from its mooring early today and sent it bouncing off into the pine barrens south of here.

The blimp, long as a football field, was found three miles away several hours later by a helicopter pilot. It was largely deflated and the navy theorized the rubberized fabric of the airship had been torn open by a tree.

Jump to Safety

When the blimp first broke away at 1:40 a. m. civil aeronautics administration warned all aircraft over this area to be on the alert. No flights were grounded, however.

Two sailors who were on watch in the gondola jumped to safety when the blimp broke loose. They were slightly injured and taken to the Ft. Dix military hospital.

The blimp—its engines removed—had been moored at a mast here for about a year. The navy had been using it to test the effect of weather on a moored blimp over a prolonged period.

Aircraft Firms Asked for Speed

May Not Receive
Added Contracts

Washington — (P) — The air force told the missile-aircraft industry today to quicken the tempo of production, warning that there will be no contracts for those firms which fail to keep the pace.

Lt. Gen. C. S. Irvine, the air force's chief for materiel, said "companies have got to stop thinking up ways to stay in the old fashioned horse-and-buggy habit of long production runs."

Irvine chose as the form for his warning the third annual jet conference of the Air Force association which includes in its membership representatives of 319 firms dealing directly or indirectly with the air force.

Irvine told AFA missiles being developed for present requirements "fall far short of the needs that must be met in the near future." This means, he added, "that our scientists and engineers serving the air force and industry, working together, must progress as far in the next five years as we have in the past 50."

Then the general asserted: "Since the major share of the production engineering burden falls on the shoulders of industry, this means that plants and factories must move toward better methods, tooling and techniques at a far greater rate than they have in past emergency years."

"Those that cannot keep the pace cannot expect much in the way of air force business."

Kohler Worker's Charge of Union Coercion Challenged

Mack Declares He Will Not Quit Job As Commissioner

Tells Probers He Is Getting Rid of Interest in Agency

Washington — (P) — Richard A. Mack said today "of course" he will not resign from the federal communications commission. He swore he was not "influenced or swayed" by appeals from friends in a contested television license case.

Mack further told a house investigating subcommittee under oath that he is getting rid of his interest in a Miami insurance agency which wrote the insurance on the successful applicant in the contest for Miami's TV Channel 10.

Mack said that it was only last Monday when he read the newspapers that he knew this agency, Stemmer - Sheldon Insurance Agency, Inc., had obtained the business from Public Service Television, Inc.

Mack acknowledged borrowings totaling $4,980 since 1950 from Miami Atty. Thurman A. Whiteside. He said all but $250 has been repaid and declared:

No Influence Attempt

"Mr. Whiteside has never in his life attempted to use any financial obligation of mine to influence my actions, either private or official."

A Republican member of the committee said yesterday Mack should resign immediately, and if he didn't—should be removed from office.

Asked by reporters as he was entering the hearing room whether he was going to quit, Mack replied, "Why, of course not."

Mack came before the house committee with a 4,000 - word, 13-page statement which he received permission to read.

Before he started reading, Mack told Committee Chairman Harris (D-Ark):

"I want to apologize if I may seem a little nervous this morning but you can well understand."

Harris nodded and said he could.

Mack said he would do his best to explain in the statement questions which committee members asked.

Free Letters Voted for GIs

Senate Includes Servicemen Who are Stationed Abroad

Washington — (P) — The senate voted today to permit U. S. servicemen stationed overseas to send letters back to this country free of charge.

It agreed also that servicemen abroad could continue to send packages home at the current rate without having to pay any rate increases made in the future.

These provisions were put by voice vote into the general postal rate bill which, in the senate version, calls for a 5-cent charge for letters going out of town. Senate leaders hoped to finish with the bill today and send it back to the house which voted a 4-cent letter rate.

Strong house opposition to the 5-cent figure is in prospect.

Sees 4-Cent Rate

Speaker Rayburn (D-Texas) told newsmen "I wouldn't be surprised to see the house cut it back to four cents."

Sens. Morse (D-Ore), Yarborough (D-Texas) and Proxmire (D-Wis.), sponsored the provision permitting overseas servicemen to mail letters back home without charge.

As originally introduced, the amendment also would have permitted letters to be sent to servicemen overseas, but the sponsors agreed to drop this clause.

Sen. Carlson (R-Kan.) said the clause would cost $27 million, and Sen. Neuberger (D-Ore) argued it would open the way for free mailing of a flood of advertising material to the overseas servicemen.

Splitting largely along party lines, the senate voted 49-42 last night to retain in the bill a provision to raise the present 3-cent rate to 5 cents for non-local letters. The 5-cent stamp would be in effect for three years.

12 Dead, 70 Hurt in Mississippi Storms

Of State Most Severely Hit

Jackson, Miss. — (P) — Quick-biting tornadoes killed 12 persons and injured an estimated 70 others last night as they skipped across Mississippi behind rain-laden winds and hailstorms.

Devastation dotted a 140-mile wide area in the central and eastern parts of the state between Canton, 20 miles north of here, and Poplarville, 120 miles south of here.

Five of the dead were in the hard-hit rural area between Richton and Waynesboro, a 20-mile stretch in southeast Mississippi near the Alabama line. Three were at the Farm Haven community near Canton, one near Jackson and one near Walnut Grove, 40 miles east of Canton.

Describes Approach

One of the Farm Haven victims was Sally Day, a Negro woman reported to be 110 years old.

The first twister reported was in the Jackson area. Mrs. Leland Bolton, a 27-year-old housewife, of the Luckney community east of here, said she was setting the table for supper when the rains and hard winds came.

"It sounded like a million bells," she said. "All I could think about was my babies and family. Only the good Lord saved us. An icebox held off the falling debris when the roof fell in."

The twister also hit in the Fannin community of the same area, killing 3-year-old Cathy Jones, a member of the Sunday school class taught by Mrs. Bolton. Ernest Jones, Jr., her father, was hurt.

Hospitals in the Jackson area reported a dozen injuries, including four students at the famed Piney Woods country school for Negroes. Several buildings at the school were damaged.

The family of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hawthorne was eating when a noise like a train on nearby track was heard. John Robert, their 13-year-old son, joked that it was a tornado. A moment later the house was a wreck and two younger children hurt.

Several dozen were reported hurt in the devastated Richton-Waynesboro area. Percy H. Clark, 56, said he and his wife, 48, heard a sound like a train as they sat in their living room.

Beats Teacher In Classroom

40 Fourth Grade Pupils See Attack
By Hooded Intruder

Havana, Ill. — (P) — An intruder wearing a pillowcase hood beat a fourth grade teacher in her classroom yesterday before 40 screaming pupils.

Sheriff Melvin Trimpe of Mason county said Mrs. Edith Coleman was conducting a class in the Central grade school when the oddly disguised visitor entered.

The sheriff said the intruder, apparently a man and also wearing coveralls, peered around the room through slits cut in the pillowcase, then produced a stick wrapped with cloth. Advancing to Mrs. Coleman's desk, he immediately commenced to beat her.

The 40 pupils were thrown into an uproar, and their screams brought other teachers to Mrs. Coleman's room. The stick-wielder fled.

Trimpe said Mrs. Coleman was not severely hurt.

Soviet Envoy Wants American and Russian Leaders to Trade Visits

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington — (P) — Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov told the Associated Press he would like to see top Soviet leaders visit the United States and American leaders go to Russia.

His sweeping assertion in the United States on trade with the Soviet Union and said they ought to be removed.

He also said "we don't compete at all" with the United States in assisting the industrial development of such countries as India. And he called for a "start 'as soon as possible' on arrangements for a summit meeting on the great issues dividing the west and Russia. "Should not be delayed." Preliminary negotiations through diplomatic channels should aim at fixing the time, place, participants and perhaps the problems to be discussed, but not get into the substance of the issues.

lead to their visiting here, however, and pushing a whirlwind campaign for trade and better relations between the world's two greatest powers. The interview with him was sought primarily to ask what specific steps he has in mind to achieve these goals.

Interview at Embassy — The interview took place late yesterday in an ornate parlor of the Soviet embassy. It lasted about 75 minutes. Here in summary are the principal points Menshikov made in replying to questions:

1. Summit Conference — A meeting of the great issues dividing the west and Russia. "Should not be delayed." Preliminary negotiations through diplomatic channels should aim at fixing the time, place, participants and perhaps the problems to be discussed, but not get into the substance of the issues.

McClellan Airs Earlier Statements

Washington — (P) — Herman Miesfeld said today he joined the United Auto Workers early in its strike against the Kohler Co. under threat of a beating. But Sen. McClellan (D - Ark) said this was "quite in conflict" with Miesfeld's previous sworn statements.

McClellan heads the senate racketeers committee, before which Miesfeld testified in the committee's public inquiry into the 45-month-old UAW strike against Kohler, Wisconsin manufacturer of bathroom fixtures.

Joseph L. Rauh, attorney for the UAW, demanded that the committee check Miesfeld's testimony about threats against previous statements he had made. Rauh said it should be "seriously considered for perjury charges."

Robert F. Kennedy, the committee counsel, then read testimony Miesfeld had given before the Wisconsin Employment Relations board saying he did not join the union under coercion.

Denies Pictures Altered — Even after this testimony was read to him, Miesfeld told the committee that "if it hadn't been for Serafino Marchiando (a UAW friend of Miesfeld), I would have taken quite a beating."

Kennedy called the two statements by Miesfeld "entirely contradictory," but Miesfeld contended he wasn't asked the "right questions" at the Wisconsin hearing.

Miesfeld's Wisconsin testimony, as read by Kennedy, said no coercion was used and "they were n't unfriendly or anything."

An argument preceded a showing of motion pictures made by company photographers, showing mass picketing and some fist swinging on the picket line at the Kohler plant.

Union Atty. Rauh protested that the pictures were "cropped" and "do not tell an accurate story."

McClellan ordered the showings to proceed, however, after Lawrence O'Neil, in charge of photography for the company, swore that in his opinion they had not been doctored to "remove evidence unfavorable to the company," as McClellan phrased it in a question.

Show Picket Lines — McClellan said he would go "to any lengths to expose" anyone "trying to doctor pictures" being placed in evidence.

O'Neil said the pictures represented about 900 feet of film out of 1,300 taken, the other 400 feet having been edited out. He said they were not the same films Rauh contended the national labor relations board had refused to accept as evidence.

The pictures showed picket lines clearly numbering hundreds of men and women, marching before the plant's gates and turning back persons who sought to enter the plant.

The pictures, O'Neil said, were made between April 5, 1954, first day of the strike, and May 25, 1954.

They showed some scenes of scores of milling men and women, with swinging fists at times clearly visible, which O'Neil described as "melees" between non-strikers trying to go to work, and strike pickets blocking them.

The committee is trying to determine whether the UAW or the Wisconsin company is responsible for acts of strike violence. The hearings have touched off a new row between UAW President Walter Reuther and Sen. Goldwater (R - Ariz), a committee member. They called one another cowards and hypocrites.

Opposed Strike — Miesfeld, who gave his address as Sheboygan, Wis., testified that Emil Mazey, secretary - treasurer of the UAW, and Don Rand, an international representative, were present when he was threatened.

Miesfeld said he opposed the strike, and was captured by union pickets while attempting to cross the picket line. He said he was taken to a soup kitchen the union maintained outside the Kohler, Wis., plant, and told

Resentment Flares Within GOP Circle

President's Sharply Worded Talk In Defense of Secretary Benson Brings Protests From Congressmen

Washington — (AP) — Resentment flared among rebellious midwestern Republicans in Congress today over President Eisenhower's sharply worded defense of Secretary of Agriculture Benson.

As two GOP house members prepared to carry corn belt protests against Benson's farm policies to the White House later today, Rep. O'Konski (R-Wis.) told newsmen: "So far, I've been under the impression we only needed a new secretary of agriculture. Now I think we also need a new president."

Eisenhower made abundantly clear to his news conference yesterday he had no idea of ousting Benson and little thought of interfering with the secretary's farm policies. One or the other has been urged openly by many farm belt Republicans.

Man of Courage

Praising Benson as a man of courage and honesty, Eisenhower said those advocating his ouster are badly mistaken.

Eisenhower said that by and large the country will be better off if farmers are free from government regulations and operate under free market forces like the rest of the economy.

He also said that Benson's programs generally have had the approval of bipartisan agricultural advisory committees.

And he added he did not think the nation had reached the point of wanting to dispense with the services of a man as dedicated, honest and courageous as Benson.

Bitter Comment

Taking the house floor shortly after the president made his statement, Rep. Andersen (R-Minn.) commented bitterly: "It now appears that the president has foreclosed any opportunity to acquaint himself with the facts of life."

Andersen was one of about 30 midwestern GOP house members seeking to force Benson's resignation or a change in administration farm policies in favor of higher farm price supports.

Rebuffed last week by Benson who announced he was neither quitting nor changing his policies, the GOP group decided to go over his head directly to Eisenhower.

Rep. Miller and Rep. Weaver, both Nebraska Republicans, made a White House date this afternoon to register the group's complaints with Eisenhower.

Cost to the Party

Miller, who contends Benson will cost the Republican party 20 to 25 midwestern seats in the November elections, said Eisenhower made a "good statement in defense of Benson."

"But I don't think it forecloses anything — at least filling him in on the situation as we see it," he said.

Weaver told newsmen he intended to tell the president that people in his district want Benson fired.

"Mr. Benson is ineffectual because the folks have lost confidence in him. When he lacks that confidence and leadership, the president ought to take cognizance of it," Weaver said.

O'Konski, who comes from Wisconsin's dairy area, attacked Benson's announced plan to lower dairy supports April 1 to 75 per cent of parity, the minimum allowed by law. Manufacturing milk is now supported at 83 per cent.

"If Benson goes through with this order April 1, there will be 10 million unemployed instead of five million," O'Konski said.

Teenage Girls Turn Attack on Police After Arrest on Bus

Chicago — (AP) — More than a score of teenage pupils from a correctional school for girls Wednesday fought and cursed policemen who arrested them for attacking other girls on a public bus.

Police said the 21 students, after boarding the bus at Chicago and Ashland avenue on the north side, started smoking and picking fights with girl students from Holy Family academy.

Two policemen stationed at the intersection boarded the bus but the girls continued the disturbance. More police were called and the 21 were taken to a station. Five, identified by police as the ringleaders, were held at a juvenile home. The others were released to their parents.

Drinking Wood Alcohol Kills 9 in New York

New York — (AP) — Nine persons have died here this week from drinking wood alcohol. The police department assigned 27 detectives to locate the source of supply before more lives are claimed.

Four men and two women died after attending a Sunday night party in Harlem. Three men, not known to have attended the party, died Wednesday.

The victims were Puerto Ricans. Dr. Milton Helpern, medical examiner, described the alcohol as methyl and said it was poisonous, even in small doses.

Accuse Paper Of Undermining Labor Party

Split Develops Over Opposition To Missile Bases

London — (AP) — Labor party secretary Morgan Phillips has accused the party newspaper of trying to "undermine the party" by opposition to U. S. missile bases in Britain and other defense measures.

A new split between most of the party and its left wing developed after the Daily Herald demanded that Britain stop making H-bombs, reject the missile bases agreed to Saturday and halt flights from Britain of U. S. planes carrying nuclear bombs.

The newspaper said today it had received a letter from Phillips asserting that the Herald's approach to nuclear disarmament "is seriously in conflict with the policy of the labor party."

Phillips said official party policy is only for Britain to stop testing H-bombs and to postpone the construction of U. S. missile bases "until we have tried summit talks."

Over-Simplification

He said the Herald, on the other hand, is demanding "unilateral cessation of H-bomb manufacture and a complete refusal to accept the missile bases, apparently regardless of the outcome of summit talks," and commented:

"We scarcely expected to see the Herald appearing to undermine the party by such over-simplification of what is undoubtedly the main challenge of our time—that of human survival."

The Herald retorted in an accompanying editor's note that its stand "reflects the views of an increasing number of people throughout the country." Sixty-nine of the 280 labor members in the house of commons have signed a letter endorsing the Herald's opposition to missile bases.

Milwaukee Man Dies In Rooming House Fire

Arthur Schmidt was dead on arrival at County Emergency hospital. Other tenants fled the building, but damage was confined to Schmidt's room.

Visit to U. S. by Princess May be Under Consideration

London — (AP) — A visit by Princess Margaret to the United States this summer is under top-level consideration in London.

The pretty, 27-year-old princess has long wanted to see America, a country she reads about avidly and admires.

She is due in Canada July 12 for a 24-day official visit. It would be easy for her to take a side trip south of the border.

Official Level. No British-American consultations about a visit are known to have taken place on any official level. A U. S. stopover apparently is still an idea rather than a project being actively planned, but protocol considerations and other aspects are already being thought about in high places.

Under consideration are such questions as:

- Would the British commonwealth countries, which Margaret has not yet visited feel slighted if the princess visited the United States first?

Since Margaret is not head of state, but has high status as the sister of the queen, where should any invitation originate?

Probe Confinement of Youth Inside Small Box

Charges Allege That Youth Was Placed In Crate, Shipped 25 Miles by Copter

Seoul, Korea — (AP) — U. S. army investigators today questioned a Korean boy whose confinement in a small, nail-studded box as punishment for stealing from an army base raised a storm of criticism in South Korea.

The army promised an announcement soon but said it did not yet know whether charges would be filed against the military personnel responsible for putting the boy in the box and flying him 25 miles by helicopter.

Korean police refused to let newsmen talk to the boy, 13-year-old Kim Chung Nyon. They took him to a U. S. army hospital, where he was pronounced in satisfactory condition, and then to an army criminal investigation unit.

Looked Haggard

Glumped at the police station, he looked haggard and sullen, with patches of tar and unevenly cropped hair showing beneath his wool cap. The newspaper Hankook Ilbo reported that before placing Kim in the box last Tuesday, U. S. troops at the Ascom city army aircraft maintenance center outside Seoul beat him with their hands and a fruit knife, pulled out some of his hair with pliers and tarred his head. The army declined comment on this until its investigation is completed. However, a spokesman said the inside dimensions of the box were 39 1/2 by 16 1/2 by 13 inches, considerably smaller than the 2 by 4 feet originally reported by the army. Kim is about 4 feet tall.

The spokesman said the sideboards of the box were separate and there were air holes. He admitted that 20 or 30 nails protruded inside the box. The army said yesterday Kim, "apparently unharmed, was released and departed" from an airfield supply room at Uijongbu. But Hankook Ilbo said he was freed "whispering and in feeble condition" only after soldiers and Korean workers in the supply room heard noises from the box.

'Infinite Hatred'

The pro-government newspaper Sege Ilbo said "we feel infinite hatred toward such lynching (methods) which is cruel beyond imagination." The independent Chosun Ilbo described the incident as "making a plaything out of a human being."

It acknowledged "sorrow and shame" over frequent Korean thefts from U. S. bases and added "we consider this an isolated incident and just hope it won't happen again."

The Catholic daily newspaper Kyungnyang Shumun also referred to the treatment of the boy as "lynching."

Hankook Ilbo welcomed the statement of regret issued by Gen. George Decker, U. S. commander in Korea, and declared "we earnestly hope that lynching by one frivolous arrogant U. S. officer wanting in common sense does not unfavorably influence the firm friendly relationship between Korea and the United States."

Most of the papers called for conclusion of an administrative agreement giving Korean courts power to try U. S. troops for non-duty offenses, which the Koreans have been trying to get for months.

Rebels Press Campaign in Cuban Capitol

One Bus Burned, Others Stopped by Water in Gasoline

Havana, Cuba — (AP) — Fidel Castro's rebels kept up their harassment campaign in the heart of Havana last night, burning one bus within five blocks of the Cuban capitol and halting others by watering their gasoline supplies.

The rebels avoided the heavily guarded sports palace where world lightweight champion Joe Brown of New Orleans knocked out Cuban Champ Orlando Echevarria in the first round of a non-title fight.

Government forces had been on the alert to protect the widely publicized match since rebels kept the star attraction out of Monday's gran premio auto race by kidnapping him for 29 hours. The star, Argentina's world champion driver Juan Fangio, was released unharmed after the race ended in a wreck fatal to seven persons.

After burning the bus, the rebels raided the two largest bus stations in the Vedado and Vohora sections of the city and poured water into the gasoline supplies. Many buses had to suspend operations.

Rebel Bands

Other rebel bands attacked and burned large mattress and leather tanning factories in Marianao, five miles southwest of Havana.

Military intelligence announced the arrest of four men and one woman in widely separated parts of the capital. They were accused of trying to send medical and military supplies to Castro's forces in Oriente province, the center of rebel activities in east Cuba where nine men were reported killed in guerrilla warfare yesterday.

Rebel raiders entered the National Bank of Cuba in downtown Havana yesterday and burned pouches containing thousands of checks. They fled without bothering any money.

The raids are designed to upset the Cuban economy, including its important tourist business, so as to produce a distress and dissatisfaction that might turn the bulk of the population against President Fulgencio Batista.

County Board to Hear Charges Against Sheriff

Green Bay — (AP) — An investigation of allegations against Brown County Sheriff Artley Skenandore will be reopened Friday by the Brown county board's protection committee which once voted the sheriff a clean bill of health.

Plans for the special meeting were announced Wednesday night by committee chairman Edward Bodart of Green Bay. He said an invitation had been extended to Supervisor Francis Leanna of the town of Scott, who demanded on Feb. 18 a grand jury investigation of the office. Leanna made his request at a county board meeting one day after the protection committee said it was satisfied with Skenandore's administration of the office.

Shortly after Bodart announced the special session, Owen Monfils, Green Bay, attorney for Leanna, issued a statement in which he said he wanted to meet with the committee. He said: "We feel that because of the committee's importance in supervising the operation of the sheriff's department, the committee is entitled to this information before we present it to the governor."

GOP Leaders to Seek Details of President's Disability Agreement

Ike Discloses Understanding With Nixon in Case of Illness

Washington — (AP) — Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) said today Republican congressional leaders will seek details of the understanding between President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon on what to do if the president becomes disabled.

Eisenhower disclosed at his news conference yesterday that such an understanding exists between him and the vice president, and is known to some other associates. But he did not say what it provides.

Knowland, the senate Republican leader, held a news conference of his own today. He said the matter will be discussed at Eisenhower's next White House meeting with GOP leaders from the capitol next Tuesday.

Knowland said congressional leaders were informed within the last week or two that there was an understanding — but he said he does not know whether it is in writing or what the understanding involves.

Not Made Public

Knowland said he believes it advisable that congressional leaders be informed as to the nature of the understanding, even though the details are not made public.

Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill.) predicted, meanwhile, that the senate judiciary committee will agree on a proposed constitutional amendment that would permit the cabinet to determine presidential inability by majority vote.

Dirksen, the assistant Republican leader, said he is confident such a proposal can get committee approval if it is compromised to give congress a voice in determining when disability ends and when a president may resume his duties.

Dirksen said this could be done by permitting congress to pass on the question of whether a disabled president had recovered sufficiently to take over again.

Discloses Understanding. President Eisenhower disclosed yesterday he has reached an understanding under which Nixon "knows exactly what he should do" if another serious illness overtakes the president.

Eisenhower said he thinks there should be a constitutional amendment to cover future cases. A house judiciary subcommittee has approved, over Republican opposition, a legislative measure to set up an advisory commission to conduct medical tests, but its findings would not be binding on the vice president.

GOP congressional leaders professed ignorance of the terms of the understanding Eisenhower said had been reached, but they assumed it provides that if the president himself were unable to decide the question, Nixon and the cabinet would determine if the president were incapacitated.

Would Step Aside

They also assumed that if the president subsequently recovered his full faculties, Nixon would step aside and Eisenhower would resume his duties.

Sen. Morse (D-Ore.) told the senate yesterday congress ought to be informed if there is any "secret understanding" about the disability question.

"If the president is not up to his job, he ought to declare the fact and resign," Morse said. "The American people should be declared in on this. The constitution does not make the presidency a tight little preserve like a quail-hunting lodge."

Nixon apparently was prepared to put the understanding into effect last November if Eisenhower's mild stroke then had been more serious. Even before the nature of the president's ailment was disclosed publicly, Nixon and Atty. Gen. Rogers hurried to the White House.

Apparently after consultation with the president's doctors they determined that it was not necessary for the vice president to take over.

Lawrence Says: Foreign Aid Bill, Trade Law Face Trouble

Practical Politics
Presents Obstacles to Legislation's Passage

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — Everybody knows there's trouble ahead in congress for the foreign aid program — and likewise for the extension of the reciprocal trade agreements. So a high-powered sales job was undertaken here this week by a group of conscientious persons in both political parties who think these projects are vital to world peace.

But, as with a lot of meritorious ideas, the proponents talk mostly to themselves.

It's not "popular," for instance, to be arguing in Washington for the expenditures of large sums for aid abroad when there is unemployment and recession going on among the people back home.

It's not "popular" to talk about extending reciprocal trade agreements and lowering tariff barriers when so many constituencies throughout the country would be adversely affected if foreign goods—manufactured at lower wage costs than prevail here—were permitted to enter the United States in great quantities.

Many senators and representatives in both parties face a condition, not just a theory, in these matters. It's true that prominent Democrats like Messrs. Truman, Stevenson and Acheson are joining with President Eisenhower, Vice President Nixon and Secretary Dulles in espousing the two programs, and there are, moreover, very good arguments for these proposals.

It's easy enough to offer high-sounding arguments about the importance of building up foreign economies, and how the rest of the world must be able to sell their goods in our markets if we are to produce a prosperous economy for everybody. But the voters who see their textile plants hurt by a tariff are up against a concrete fact—namely, the possible loss of their jobs.

Tariff Walls

The question of tariff walls have been before the American people for many decades. A gradual reduction has been made over the years, but lately the opponents have argued not so much against changes in tariff rates — for even the present duties are not high enough to protect some industries — but in favor of some kind of quotas actually to restrict or limit imports from certain countries. The Europeans use the quota system. Even American magazines started since 1945 are kept off the newsstands of Great Britain because the government there wishes to limit the competition with British periodicals. The Canadian government, moreover, put a high tax on certain types of American publications to discourage their doing business in Canada.

The tariff question is being linked to the foreign aid program. Members of congress who don't want to see tariffs disturbed are likely to withhold votes from the appropriations for foreign aid as a weapon for compromise.

Organized Effort

The effort by a well-organized group in Washington this week to create a favorable public opinion for foreign aid and for the reciprocal trade agreements is perhaps the most spectacular in a long time. But it doesn't answer the question of what happens to the congressman or senator who has a lot of unemployed back home and still votes for aid to foreign countries.

The problem are complex but not insoluble. It will cost money really to protect industries that may be affected by tariffs. They are, to be sure, as important as any casualties in the economic world ever assisted by government before. It will cost money to help generally the unemployed at home and, when that's done, the congress may be better disposed toward the whole foreign aid project and reciprocal trade agreements.

The indubitable fact is that the current recession now is uppermost in the minds of the people and is the basic concern of all members of congress. "Charity begins at home" is an age-old slogan, and maybe it is too narrow in its implication—but, politically speaking, it is broad enough to influence a good many voters in the next election.

Nixon Seems to Have Clear Field for Presidential Race

Democratic Possibilities Numerous But None Appears to Have Lead

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Washington — Vice President Richard Nixon has virtually a clear field for the Republican presidential nomination and the leadership of his party in 1960.

Democratic prospects for the presidential nomination are numerous enough but no one candidate or potential candidate today has a really significant lead for the highest prize of his party.

These are the conclusions of a Wisconsin political observer after 10 days of listening and asking questions in the national capital.

The vice president's situation in the country at large is evidently substantially similar to that he holds in Wisconsin, where most of the practicing Republican politicians recognize him as the only real possibility for the nomination. Many of them of considerable influence are already committed to his candidacy, formally or privately.

In the National Press club, where the political commentators of all ranks and varieties of persuasions gather to talk shop and trade notes on the capital events of the day, there is very little dispute about Nixon's commanding lead for his party's first prize.

Knowland Possible

The only other possible contender who gets much attention is Sen. William Knowland, Nixon's California colleague and ostensible rival.

But Knowland must win the governorship of California this year in order to be in a position to put in a respectable claim in 1960 and there is a good deal of doubt that he can bring it off. The Democratic tide is running as Washington sees it. Knowland has a prodigious opponent in the Democratic candidate in California, Atty. Gen. Pat Brown.

There is some talk about Harold Stassen, the perennial bidder, but there is a strong under-tone of amusement, almost contempt, accompanying comments about the ambitious former governor of Minnesota who is now making a long shot run for the governorship of Pennsylvania.

He was dismissed from the Eisenhower administration after an open and unpleasant breach with Secretary of State Foster Dulles on the fundamental issues of American policy abroad.

But so universal is the assumption of Nixon's lead that most of the Republican speculation tends to center on the vice presidential nomination possibilities.

Sen. John Kennedy of Massachusetts, a touselled and comparatively young personality, is generally supposed to be the most popular Democratic presidential possibility at the moment.

Adlai May Try

Another most frequently talked about is Gov. Robert Meyner of New Jersey. There is a growing feeling that Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, nominee in 1952 and 1956, would like to try again. There are many others. As one acute observer put it, "right now the Democrats have mostly vice presidents."

What he meant was that the build-up has not yet really begun, or begun to show results for any of the Democratic possibilities. Sen. Kennedy is dead serious about his plans however. It is told he is mounting the strongest possible campaign delegations. But Gov. Averell for reelection in his own state every last vote from his state to add to his prestige build-up for 1960.

Gov. Meyner made a widely publicized speech at the National Press club a few weeks ago. According to the story here, it was directly slanted to the "bosses" of the Democratic party, the big state organization leaders who will control the big blocs of 1960 delegates who will make the nomination convention decisions. According to the accounts here, however, there is some doubt the speech was really effective.

Wisconsin Sen. Proxmire, a long time friend of Adlai Stevenson and a man who will have a good deal to say about Wisconsin votes in the 1960 convention if he is reelected this year, reportedly visited with his old friend recently and talked about the politics of the day.

Recounts Experience

Proxmire was recounting his own unprecedented experiences in Wisconsin campaigns — including the fact that he was beaten three times for governor before he came back in a dramatic victory for the senatorial election in 1957.

Stevenson was only half listening and didn't respond for a moment. But suddenly he came alive and demanded:

"How many times did you say you ran before you won?"

There are many other Democratic possibilities, such as Gov. Mennen Williams of Michigan who has become such a familiar figure on Wisconsin Democratic campaign platforms. But each of them has some handicaps. Williams' may be his close association with the Michigan CIO, which may figure in some of the impending hearings of the McClellan investigating committee.

Governors of New York historically are presidential possibilities because of the size and power of their convention delegations. But Gov. Averell for reelection in his own state every last vote from his state to add to his prestige build-up for 1960.

The Wisconsin presidential delegate election and presidential primary in the spring of 1960 will be a vitally important trial heat for Vice President Nixon.

State Supporters

Wisconsin supporters were prepared to enter him in the 1956 primary, when the presi-

Postcard Found 30 Years Too Late For Appointment

Dallas—A mighty dead postcard sent to the dead letter office here raises the question of whether Joe met Minnie one Friday night some 30 years ago.

Or did Minnie spend hours waiting at the depot and raise a domestic crisis?

A post card was found lodged in the lobby mail chute at the Gibraltar hotel in Paris, Texas, recently when the mail receptacle was taken out during remodeling.

The card is undated, but it is addressed to a Dallas post-office box number that went out of use in 1930.

The last name of the addressee is illegible, but the card begins, "Dear Joe." It ends, "Love, Minnie." The writer said she was enjoying her stay in Paris and added, "don't have too good a time while your wife is away."

Then it says, "Don't forget to meet me Friday night at the depot."

Postmen, trying to deliver the card here, wondered: Did he?

dent's illness made his availability uncertain. Those supporters remain in strategic places—including several of the most active Wisconsin congressmen who are intimate friends of the vice president.

There are some possible barriers to Nixon. Here in Washington there is a good deal of talk about the "new Nixon," a phrase suggesting the changes that have come over him since he was called the "white collar McCarthy" by the liberals a few years ago.

Some persons close to Nixon fear he may have alienated some of the more conservative forces in his party by the modifications of his position and thinking in the last couple of years. That would pose obstacles in Wisconsin, for example, if the conservatives had a chance to boom Knowland as governor of California.

There is also some quiet misgivings about Thomas E. Dewey, the two time GOP nominee who remains in a powerful position in New York Republican organization affairs. As with Stevenson, there are those who wonder whether Dewey would not like another chance to run for the highest office in the world.

that "it was either sign up (with the union) or get beat up."

He said he signed, but never did pay dues and "I wouldn't know" whether the union regarded him as a member.

Rauh, sitting in the rear of the room, interrupted as the committee was about to excuse Miesfeld from the witness stand.

"This witness testified twice before and not a word was said about this," Rauh said. He suggested the committee ask some cross-examining questions.

Misunderstood Query

Miesfeld first said he had testified before the NLRB and that "to my knowledge I testified about the same as I did today."

Later, however, he said he had misunderstood the question, and had meant to say this was before the Wisconsin Employment Relations Board. He said "I can't remember" whether he told the NLRB of the alleged threats.

Robert F. Kennedy, the committee counsel, produced a copy of a sworn statement Miesfeld acknowledged having given to the Kohler Co. on April 8, presumably in 1954. That was a few days after the strike started, Kennedy said. Miesfeld mentioned no threats in that statement and he asked: "Why didn't you put in that affidavit that they threatened you?"

"I don't believe it was brought up at that time," Miesfeld replied.

McClellan called Theodore Mosch, former sheriff of Sheboygan county, Wis., in which the Kohler plant lies, for questioning about testimony that Mosch was "dragging his heels on law enforcement" and favoring the strikers back in 1954.

Chief to Be Witness
Police Chief Waldemar Capelle of Kohler, Wis., was listed as another of a half dozen witnesses on call.

Kennedy said he would question them about testimony given yesterday that the union engaged in violent mass picketing about the plant, and that the company had acquired an illegal arsenal even before the strike started.

Reuther's use of a senate office building room for his news conference, when other quarters proved too small, also entered in the senate debate. Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.), the senate GOP leader, demanded and got the promise of a rules committee inquiry.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) agreed it was improper for an outsider to use senate facilities to assail a senator, but said it was improper also for Goldwater to attack Reuther in a senate speech because Reuther has no rights to talk back in the senate.

In testimony yesterday three non-striking Kohler employees swore they had suffered violence at union pickets' hands. Mrs. Alice M. Tracey, a grey-haired, motherly-looking widow, testified she was "stomped on" and cursed for trying to cross the picket line in 1954.

Mrs. Tracey

She named Jess Ferrazza, an aide to UAW Secretary-Treasurer Emil Mazey, as the man who "stomped" on her feet.

Dale Oostdyk, another non-striker, testified a group of union pickets held him captive and beat and kicked him for crossing the picket line. He quoted Ferrazza as telling him, "I should be killed for trying to get into work."

The third non-striker, Harold Jacobs, said he was kicked, harassed, threatened and cursed for refusing to strike. He said Ferrazza had kicked him, also had kicked another non-striker in the groin, and was known as a man "handy with his feet" in a fight.

Jacobs testified he "definitely" agreed with Goldwater that the then Sheriff Mosch had been "dragging his heels" when asked to protect non-strikers in difficulties with hostile union pickets. He said he knew of no arrest of strikers made by Mosch.

The non-strikers' testimony differed from that of Allan Graskamp, president of the UAW local. They had charged among other things that the union used at least 100 "stranger" pickets from other cities and plants. Graskamp, a cousin of Oostdyk, had testified he knew of no violence by union people, and that he believes not more than 15 non-Kohler workers were among the 2,000 pickets who ringed the plant in mass picketing at times.

Wants U.S. and Soviet Leaders To Trade Visits

United States—Menshikov was asked about attacks by Khrushchev and the Soviet press on U.S. "imperialists" and "war preparations." He said he had read articles in the United States critical of the Soviet Union and went on: "There has been a lot of misunderstanding and, if you like, misrepresentation." But he thought criticism would decrease "the more we understand each other's position" and the more international tensions are relaxed.

Differences Inevitable

3. U.S.-Soviet Differences—"There will always be some sort of disagreement. Ideological differences should not necessarily produce bad feelings between the two countries. You can believe in anything. You like and in the way of life you prefer. In the family of nations we can disagree and confine ourselves to our own countries and be all right."

4. U.S.-Soviet Trade—"Artificial restrictions and discriminations have been imposed on trade between our two countries. First, all of this didn't cause any harm to our country. Second, your country didn't gain anything from that. Certain business circles in this country lost trade as a result. And of course the whole thing added a little bit to the tensions between the two countries."

Following up a recent agreement between them to promote cultural exchanges, Menshikov said the United States and Russia should "normalize the economic relationship and mutually advantageous trade." He said Russia could sell such foods as caviar and other commodities like furs, skins, chromium ore, platinum and manganese. Russia would like to buy machinery, industrial and agricultural products.

Officials Friendly

5. Meetings with High "U.S. Officials—The ambassador was asked how he had been received: "I can only say that I have been received very well by everybody that I met. They've been very nice. . . . I found all of them to be nice people whom I can talk with from time to time and discuss certain things. I found that most people I met expressed a desire in a general way to come to some sort of understanding between our countries and this is a good sign."

6. Menshikov's Travel Plans in the United States—"I have visited about 20 countries so far and always found them interesting. I should like to go to several cities just to see the people and to learn more about your country. I am planning to go to New York, Cleveland and Chicago and other parts of the country within the next two or three months. Philadelphia, too. . . . I can't mention specific dates."

7. Travel Restrictions—Both Russia and the United States restrict the travel of each other's citizens and diplomats in their territory. "I am sure those restrictions will be lifted," Menshikov said. "The more understanding you have the more you improve relations."

Michigan Lawmakers Strike Blow for Love

Lansing, Mich. — Michigan lawmakers struck a blow for love and romance Wednesday. By a 22-67 vote, the house killed a bill to raise the cost of a marriage license in Michigan from $2 to $5.

Rep. Adolph Blanchard of Bay City, who handled marriage license applications for 18 years as Bay City county clerk, said:

"Five dollars is too much to ask for the privilege of getting married."

Rep. Chester Wozniak of Detroit asserted it was a matter of personal opinion. Married a little over a year, he said:

"If I were to do it again, I wouldn't mind paying $5."

tee members may have in mind and then would answer questions.

Before letting Mack go ahead, Harris said into the record a letter he said he had received last night from Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.), whose name has been brought up in connection with Katzentine's bid for the channel.

Letter From Kefauver

There was testimony earlier in the hearings that Florida friends of Mack had contacted the commissioner, at Kefauver's request, on behalf of Katzentine.

In the letter, Kefauver said Katzentine had been known to him for many years and it was pleasing to him when he heard the FCC examiner had recommended Katzentine get the channel.

Then, Kefauver said, "it was disturbing to me" when Katzentine told him he'd heard the examiner's ruling would be reversed and that Katzentine's support for him in the Florida primary was substantially responsible for the reversal.

Kefauver commented that he had "vigorously opposed" the appointment of then Chairman George McConaughy to the FCC. He said he spoke to Commissioners Robert T. Bartley and Frieda Hennock and asked them to consider the case on its merits.

Later, he said, Mack spoke to him and said "despite certain obligations he had" he was inclined to remove himself from the case.

Kefauver said that in no case in discussing the Channel 10 matter did he ask that it be settled on other than the basis of merit.

The senator ended his letter by saying he was convinced there should be a code of ethics for regulatory agencies.

Dairy Herd Down, Beef Cattle Up On State Farms

Madison —(P)—An inventory of livestock shows Wisconsin farms last year had a one per cent decline in dairy cow population but substantial increases in the number of beef cattle, sheep and hogs.

Orville Krause of the State Crop Reporting service, which conducted the inventory, said Wisconsin had 2,552,000 cows at the end of 1957.

He said the number of beef cattle reached a new high in 1957 when Wisconsin farms had the five times as many beef animals as there were seven years ago.

The hog total was 6 per cent higher than the count a year ago. Stock sheep totaled 9 per cent more than the previous year, while sheep and lambs on feed totaled about 10 per cent higher.

The inventory attested to the obsolescence of the draft horse. The statisticians found 62,000 horses, 10 per cent less than there were the year before.

Ross Warne

Ross Warne To Head Drive For Easter Seals

Ross Warne, active in Easter Seal work for several years, has been named chairman for the county's 1958 Easter Seal campaign, a drive aimed at providing funds for services to crippled children and adults in the area.

The appointment was announced by Victor Mueller, president of the county society, who also said Les Robinson will be publicity chairman for the annual appeal.

This year's goal is $8,200 and the drive is scheduled to be conducted from March 6 through April 6, Easter Sunday.

Warne pointed out Easter Seal funds are used to provide professional help from rehabilitation centers, diagnostic and evaluation clinics, itinerant services and therapy for the home bound, equipment loan pools, home employment programs, craft and sales outlets, employment placement services and vocational guidance and counseling services.

The local chapter also has opened the Easter Seal Home-crafters shop, 215 N. Oneida street, which provides outlets for articles made by home-bound people.

NATO Council Appoints Special Groups to Study Summit Meeting

Paris —(P)—The permanent council of the North Atlantic Treaty organization announced today that it has assigned special "working groups" to study the possibility of an east-west summit conference.

The working groups are made up of experts from the 15 NATO member countries and are under the immediate supervision of NATO Secretary General Paul Henri Spaak and the permanent representatives.

The announcement indicated that the west has decided to turn at least some of the complex problem of preparation for a possible new summit conference over to NATO. Presumably the idea is to coordinate the allies' policy on questions likely to be discussed at a conference for the guidance of the United States, Britain, France and any other NATO participants.

The permanent representatives who make up the NATO council all represent their individual governments and have ambassadorial rank.

Prison Inmate Handed Another 5-Year Term

West Bend —(P)—Sam DiMaggio, 41-year-old prison inmate, was convicted by a circuit court jury Wednesday night for breaking and entering a Kewaskum store a year ago.

Judge William O'Connell sentenced DiMaggio, of Milwaukee, to five years in the state prison at Waupun. The judge directed that the term begin after DiMaggio completes a 10-year sentence he began serving last August after his conviction for a Milwaukee burglary.

Two other Milwaukeeans were arrested for the Kewaskum break-in. Nick Tarantino, 27, pleaded guilty last Oct. 24 and was sentenced to four years in the Waupun prison. Frank Aiola, 25, pleaded innocent and is awaiting trial.

12 Killed in Mississippi

He said his pickup truck was carried 100 feet and deposited in the top of a pine tree.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Rylee in the same area, the twister ripped the house to "indiscribably torn pieces," killing Mrs. Rylee, about 50 and her son Billy, 13.

Thunderstorms, snow, hail, strong winds and dust storms struck sections from the plains to Mississippi. Wet weather covered most of the eastern two-thirds of the nation.

Violent Weather

The intense storm which moved across the plains and was centered in eastern Oklahoma early today was blamed for the variety of violent weather.

Strong winds surrounding the storm center swept cold air across the western half of the country and southerly winds fanned warmer breezes and rain to most of the eastern half.

The huge storm virtually controlled the weather from the Atlantic to the Pacific oceans and from the Gulf of Mexico to the Canadian border.

Wind and dust storms lashed the southern plains. Severe thunderstorms and tornadoes pounded the lower Mississippi valley. Heavy snowfall was reported in parts of the western plains.

Low pressures reported near the storm's center yesterday, indicating its intensity, broke all previous records dating back to 1900 in some areas from Kansas to Texas. The barometric pressure at sea level in many places was reported at less than 29 inches.

Relationship of Heat to Molecular Action Discussed

BY RAMON COFFMAN

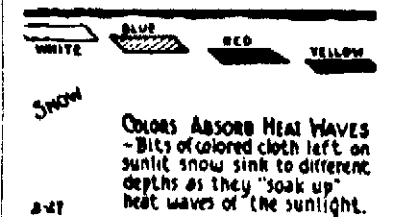

There is only a little movement of molecules after a gas (such as oxygen or helium) is turned into a cold liquid. Let the same gas be heated, and the molecules move, or dance, in a wild manner.

All elements on the earth's surface are heated by sunshine. By using a flame, we can make a material (iron, for example) hot. This means that we greatly increase the dance of the molecules.

Q. Can anything burn without oxygen?

A. Usually we must have oxygen for burning, but there can be burning without oxygen. One interesting proof is the fact that hydrogen will burn in chlorine and will give off both heat and light.

Oxygen is needed, however, for most kinds of burning on this planet. We kindle a "bon-up" the oxygen in the air inside fire, and it eats up oxygen while it burns. The same is true of a gas fire or a coal fire.

If a small lighted candle is placed on a table, and if an empty water glass is turned so it encloses the candle while resting on the table, the flame goes out in a hurry. The flame "eats" the oxygen in the air inside

Sentence Man to Four Years for Having Marijuana

Racine —(P)—A Racine man arrested following the seizure of $700,000 worth of marijuana near Kenosha, was sentenced Wednesday to four years in the state prison at Waupun after pleading guilty to illegal possession of marijuana.

Jubentino Gonzales, 36, appeared in municipal court. He said of two packages of the illegal narcotic he purchased he sold one and flushed the other down a drain when he feared arrest.

Gonzales was taken into custody three days after Ignacio Cruz, 34, was arrested by U. S. customs service agents who found 702 pounds of marijuana in his home near Kenosha. Garza is awaiting federal court action in Milwaukee on charges of receiving, concealing and facilitating transportation of marijuana illegally imported from Mexico.

Gonzales was accused of selling some of the marijuana to one way or another, but care should be taken to make sure.

No Single Cure for Low Milk Price, Farmers Told

Cooperative Manager Outlines Steps to Cut Dairy Surplus and Boost Income

Black Creek — There is no one-shot cure for sagging dairy prices and dairy surpluses, about 80 farmers were told at a meeting called here by the Fair Price committee Wednesday afternoon.

N. E. Fabricius, general manager of a dairy cooperative at Ladysmith and the featured speaker, said many things had gone into creating the problem and it would take many things to solve it.

The Fair Price committee is made up of farmers and businessmen who are circulating petitions opposing any cut in dairy supports until a new dairy program is formulated and put into force. Milo Singler, Shiocton, is chairman. A cut in the support price of dairy products to the legal minimum of 75 per cent of parity is scheduled for April 1.

Outlines Program
Fabricius outlined a program which he said would effect a cure for the dairy surplus and raise prices.

The first step would be to get rid of Secretary of Agriculture Benson. He said that while Benson personally was an admirable man, his policies of cutting the support price would only create a larger surplus because farmers would have to increase production to keep their income up.

Just because there is a surplus of dairy products is no reason to cut prices, Fabricius said. "There is presently a surplus of labor, but Secretary of Labor Mitchell has not proposed a cut in wages."

Would Forbid Coloring
A second proposal would be to require a law forbidding addition of color to all table spreads. He said butter consumption would go up 10 per cent if oleomargarine were not colored.

A third proposal was to get bad butter off the market through a consumer grading program. A large amount of the butter in the country is produced from sour cream which makes a poorer quality butter forcing people to turn to other spreads like oleomargarine, Fabricius continued.

Forcing the producer to put a grade on the butter would eventually drive poor butter off the market, he contended.

Research to show cheese producers how to make soft and semi-soft cheeses in this country would result in larger cheese sales and help put an end to the surplus, he listed as a fourth point. He said Europeans consumed about 26 pounds of cheese per person a year, while Americans ate only 7.6 pounds. A big reason, he said, is that American cheese makers don't make enough varieties.

Fabricius also lashed out at ice cream makers for putting too much inferior ice cream on the market, which he said cut consumption.

He went on to say that federal marketing orders for a certain area did not solve the problem of low prices. Farmers in such an area felt they had an assured market and then expanded production which in turn increased the surplus over the fluid milk market and drove down the price of the extra milk.

Another point he claimed would cut the surplus would be to have the government sell powdered skim milk to a manufacturer and then let him make casein out of it and sell it to paint and paper makers instead of importing casein from Argentina as presently done.

Set Field Trip Sunday
The Wisconsin Society for Ornithology will conduct its annual Lake Michigan shore trip to look for early spring birds Sunday. Those making the trip will meet at 8 o'clock in the morning at Smith Brothers pier in Port Washington.

The Appletton Association of Labor Unions held an open house Wednesday night at the Labor Hall for all union members in the Fox Cities to discuss a Committee on Political Education. Shown seated, left to right, are Robert Schlieve, president of the association, and Mrs. Leora Dunning, Milwaukee, representative of the state federation of labor's women's activities division. Standing, in the same order, are Ted James, Milwaukee, COPE division of the state federation; William Ewald, trustee of the Appletton association; Wesley Wagner, vice president of the association; and Fred Rehfeldt, delegate of Printers Local 612. COPE replaces several separate CIO and AFL political education groups and is designed to give union members information about candidates and issues in elections. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Spread Over Country Many Lawrentians Go Into Teaching Fields

Lawrence college seniors who filed out of Memorial chapel last June with teaching credits tucked in their diplomas are now filling classrooms in nine states and one U.S. territory, according to figures released by Miss Marie Dohr, director of teacher placement.

Of the 86 seniors qualified to teach last commencement, exactly 50 per cent of them are in the classroom this year. Fifteen per cent of the group are now in military service and may yet be added to the teacher rolls, while 7 per cent are in graduate school, preparing for teaching in higher education. Eighteen per cent were women who married shortly after graduation and 10 per cent sought non-academic jobs.

In the last 10 years, there has been a steady climb in teachers emanating from Lawrence. In 1947-'48, only 22 took jobs; in '52-'53, there were 26; by '56-'57 the number had grown to 38, and in the season just past there were 43. In addition to the new teachers, the Lawrence placement service guided 36 older graduates into new jobs.

Distant States
The current crop of teachers are not at all prone to stay at home, but have sought distant states for their first jobs. Wisconsin and Illinois each attracted 34 per cent of the Lawrence class, but the rest have taken jobs in such varied geographical locations as Alaska, Virginia, Washington, Texas, Connecticut, California, Pennsylvania and Michigan. There are special concentrations in nearby urban areas, for 12 are around Chicago and 5 in Milwaukee. To several towns, new graduates appear to have gone in pairs, for there are two in Franklin Park, Ill., two in Aberdeen, Wash., and three in Clarkston, Mich.

The average inexperienced teacher from Lawrence signed her contract in Wisconsin for $4,062, while her classmate going to Illinois averaged $4,090, and those going to other states had a median of $4,063.

Top Salaries
Generally Lawrence graduates joined with other newcomers to the teaching profession in realizing recent salary gains made in that field. The top salary for the 1956 class was $5,650, but this was for out-of-the-country teaching. Top domestic salary was $4,700, compared with $4,200 in 1957; $3,650 in 1956; $3,500 in 1955 and $3,300 in 1954.

Largest number of Lawrence teachers are in music—37 per cent of the total. Seven are in elementary work, six in English, four in history and three in art. Other fields represented are German, speech, French, mathematics, special education, Spanish, biology, language arts and coaching.

Graduate schools chosen by the as-yet-not-teaching group include the Universities of Wisconsin, Indiana, Texas, Radcliffe college and Cranbrook academy of art.

Circulatory Troubles Can Stem From Earlier Frostbite

By Joseph G. Molner, M. D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Some time ago my toes were frost-bitten. They only hurt at times when I sit or lie down, never when I stand on them. Is there any cure?" — R. D. E.

Dr. Molner

Frostbite means the actual freezing of the tissues, and in passing, remember that dampness as well as just the cold is an important factor in causing frostbite. Keep dry!

Frostbite can range from mild (blanching of the affected toes, fingers, ears, etc.) to very severe, resulting in the gangrene. In corresponding degree, it takes considerable time for the injury to the frozen parts to recover, and they remain unusually susceptible to cold for a long time afterwards.

Other Factors
Now whether R. D. E.'s trouble is from the frostbite, or whether some unrelated disturbances in circulation are involved, is impossible to say, just from the letter. However, circulatory troubles can result in the sort of things he describes.

Spasm Of Arteries
If, as is also the case sometimes, the trouble stems from a rather severe spasm of the arteries, you still may find it quite possible to get relief. This spasm means that the arteries, for one reason or another, become tense and tight. You can see how this must affect the circulation.

As they constrict, they reduce the blood flow, and when the circulation is insufficient, you get some of those pains. However, don't "just guess" that that's the trouble. (Yes, I know; none of my readers ever does any guessing!) It's for your doctor to decide and prescribe.

Tapeworms
"Dear Dr. Molner: My family is having an argument on tapeworm. How long do they grow? Do they have heads or mouths? Are they extremely dangerous? Are they liable to be in animals as well as humans?" — S.H."

"Tapeworm" applies to a lot of varieties. The common roundworm may grow to about 14 inches; this is a variety called fish tapeworm which can grow to 60 feet. Yes, feet!

They have mouths, and while they seldom cause death, they can rob the body of so much nourishment that they weaken general resistance, and so on. The serious cases are more likely to be in semi-tropical lands. Most of these creatures occur in animals as well as humans.

Czechs Work For Lead in Jet Air Travel

Prague Expects to Be Europe's Hub for East-West Service

BY STAN SWINTON

Prague, Czechoslovakia—The Czechs expect to become the hub for East-West passenger travel in the jet air age.

The Czechs are off to a fast start—thanks to the Soviet Union. The Russians sold them their sleek new 70-seat TU104 jets. Since last December, Czechoslovak airlines service has flown regular jet routes between Prague and Moscow.

More routes are being added. The Czechs claim to be the third country in Europe to begin regular use of jets. Britain pioneered with the original Comet, later withdrawn after a series of crashes. Soviet Russia was next.

There ambitious plans to expand Prague's Ruzyně airport to attract jet traffic. Ruzyně already is the busiest air terminal in East Europe outside Russia. Thirteen foreign airlines have scheduled services here. No American line is among them.

Face Competition

Ruzyně's main runway is to be extended by 1,100 yards to give it an over-all length of 13 miles. It is to be completed in 1958.

The international passenger terminal is to be expanded by 50 per cent. In 1960, the planners hope to begin a new downtown air terminal in Prague.

The Czechs face communist competition. Warsaw also hopes to become the chief of East-West transit point. But the Czechs have a head start. To exploit this lead, Czechoslovak airlines plans jet service to Beirut, Damascus and Cairo with the TU104.

The Czechs hope their geographical position will draw passengers en route to or from the eastern Mediterranean and Middle East. By western standards, traffic still will not be great. Ruzyně hopes, if all goes well, to reach in 15 years about the volume London airport now handles.

The Czechs are a long way from having an all-jet airline. On most routes they still use conventional old Russian models much like the American DC3.

Won't be Speechmaker

GOP State Chairman Expected To Bring New Approach to Post

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Madison — The Republican state committee has chosen a new kind of chairman who will show a new approach to his campaign manager's job as the election year proceeds and Republicans encounter a stronger Democratic foe in the struggle for votes.

Claude J. Jasper, the Madison lawyer who was chosen state committee chief to replace the resigned Phillip Kuehn of Milwaukee, won't be much of a speech-maker, he told reporters here.

"The candidates who ask for the votes of the people should make the speeches," he declared.

Moreover, he says he does not intend that he shall be solely responsible for the mechanical functioning of the organization.

Wants More Workers

He believes in bringing more Republicans into the campaign than have participated as directors and state headquarters workers in the past.

"Giving them something to do," as he puts it, will make better and more effective partisans of those persons who regard themselves as members of the organization but have typically been comparatively passive about it during the campaign season.

Such spreading of campaign duties, he pointed out, will also permit him to hold the chairman's job without sacrificing his personal law practice. Jasper practices alone in Madison. He is the first state party leader in nearly a generation who wasn't associated with a sizeable business enterprise. Other party chairmen found it relatively easy to take leaves from their private employment to spend long hours at Republican headquarters during campaign seasons.

Jasper came into the organization command by way of the party treasurer's office, a fact which led reporters here to inquire about the GOP's financial position in a prospectively difficult year.

Financial Condition

"It is not good," the chairman reported matter-of-factly. "But if the contributors are as enthusiastic as the workers, we'll get the contributions," he added, cheerfully.

Jasper didn't mention it, but the impression in party circles is that the financial contributions may be dribbles until the big question of candidate recruitment is settled.

Specifically, many of the party leaders are concerned at the apparent lack of interest among potential or eligible candidates for the party nomination for United States senator.

No Encouragement

Gov. Thomson continues to receive suggestions that he leave the governor's office to make a bid for the senatorial nomination, but the closest inquiry here has failed to show that he has given those proposals any encouragement. The governor, according to some of his friends, is also growing concerned that the party may not have a strong senatorial nominee. A weak candidate, it is suggested, would be a liability to the rest of the party slate, including Thomson in his presumed bid for a new term. Jasper and others have spent long hours on the candidate problem, but if they have come to any conclusions they have kept their secrets well. Jasper spent this week in Washington, where he saw officials of the Republican national committee, among others.

The national party officials are said to be astonished at the apparent vacuum in Wisconsin Republican politics with respect to the senatorship. They look upon Wisconsin, from the perspective of the national capital, as a Republican state in which the party should be favored to pick up a senate seat, as against some of the more doubtful states of the country where senatorial elections are being held this year.

Church Council Calls Drinking Serious Threat

New York — The governing board of the National Council of Churches says "the use of alcoholic beverages is a serious threat to the health, happiness and welfare of many people and to the stability of families and communities."

Nowhere does the board's statement call drinking sinful. But it says that alcoholics are "persons in need of diagnosis, understanding, guidance and treatment."

The statement on "the churches and alcohol" was made Wednesday on the first day of a 2-day meeting of the board. The board is the policy-making agency of the national council, a federation of 34 Protestant and Orthodox denominations with 38 million members.

The board said there is a need for churches to establish clinics to treat alcoholics and conduct educational programs on all phases of drinking.

The statement said education in the churches "should cover all aspects of the use of alcohol—drinking, drunkenness and alcoholism—and should be conceived in long-range terms. It should reach adults as well as children and youth."

Swedish Colonel to be New UN Truce Chief

United Nations, N. Y. — Diplomatic sources say Col. Carl von Horn of the Swedish army will be named the new U. N. truce chief in Palestine.

Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld was reported yesterday to have chosen his fellow countryman to succeed Canadian Lt. Gen. F. L. M. Burns, who has been spending full time since late 1956 commanding the U. N. emergency force on the Israeli-Egyptian border. Burns will keep the UNEF assignment.

Burns' deputy, U. S. Marine Col. Byron V. Leary, has been acting truce chief but Jordan has refused to deal with him on major issues. The Jordanians accuse Leary of being pro-Israeli.

Man Who Held Gun on Woman Pleads Guilty Of Breaking, Entering

Manitowoc — James Meisner, 21, who wrecked a stolen car and frightened a farmwife with a gun before he was found hiding during zero weather in a farm shed, pleaded guilty Wednesday to four charges of breaking and entering and one of auto theft.

Meisner, of Manitowoc, appeared in municipal court and will be sentenced following an investigation by probation authorities. He was arrested Feb. 15 after a manhunt across farm fields and through a woods near Valders.

He was discovered hiding in a shed on the farm of Leslie Lueloff whose wife, Barbara, fled when Meisner entered the house earlier holding a gun and with a handkerchief over his face. He walked into the house after wrecking the car on near-by Highway 131 when he plowed into a snow bank. The auto had been stolen from a used car lot in Manitowoc.

Place Curb on House Parties

Atlanta — A curb on house parties and social functions has been imposed on Georgia Tech's Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity in the wake of a snowbound weekend in the Georgia mountains.

Dean John J. Pershing last night ordered the fraternity to have no more house parties until the spring quarter of 1959 and no social functions until after May 1, this year.

The dean acted on recommendations forwarded to him by Tech's inter-fraternity council board after a trial Monday night on charges of improper chaperonage and starting the party before the approved time.

More than 100 fraternity men and their dates were snowbound Feb. 14-17 at Lake Winfield Scott during one of Georgia's worst snow storms in years.

Six University of Georgia coeds were dismissed for the remainder of the term for attending the house party.

Author-Actor Busy Man Peter Ustinov Spends Leisure Writing Books

BY HAL BOYLE

New York — Playwright Peter Ustinov is a man with no desire to put his plastic mind inside a plastic helmet.

"I am convinced that in opening up the space age we will take ourselves mentally back to the 11th and 12th century," said the author and star of the Broadway satire, "Romanoff and Juliet," which spoofs the cold war between the United States and Soviet Russia.

"It is only the lack of space that has forced man to become as civilized as he is."

"If people get the idea there is more space to be occupied, they may go back to the earliest forms of colonialism, and engage in religious wars with the natives of other planets. Why not?"

"There would be room to make again all the mistakes mankind made in the past."

"It might be a better thing if there were an invasion from space against us. That at least would consolidate mankind."

At 36 Ustinov, the London-born son of a Russian newspaperman, has become a literary infant (terrible of two continents). He bears a pudgy, bearded resemblance to Anton Chekhov. He talks like a mixture of Oscar Wilde, Bernard Shaw and H. L. Mencken.

Working on Novel

As busy as he is unorthodox, Ustinov, the speaks five languages) has written a dozen plays and two revues, acted in ten movies and produced three. He is also a lecturer, a television star—and is currently turning out a novel.

"I work on it over weekends," he said. "It's difficult to say what it's about—except to say that it's about a man who learns how to survive by learning how to cheat and lie."

Personally one of the most charming imports from Britain in many a year, Pete—as the stagehands call him—gives the

Distrusts Experts

Here are a few random remarks struck during a luncheon interview:

"Most humorists are quite serious."

"In this day and age I very much distrust experts. If and when the world blows itself up, the last coherent sound heard will be an expert saying, 'It can't be done.'"

"I dislike the military mind and politicians. The relative importance of politicians during their lifetime is out of proportion to their importance in history. Who today can name the minister of finance in Austria when Beethoven lived there?"

"If I am afraid of anything, it probably is dogs. Even the most intelligent dogs, it seems to me, act like sergeants."

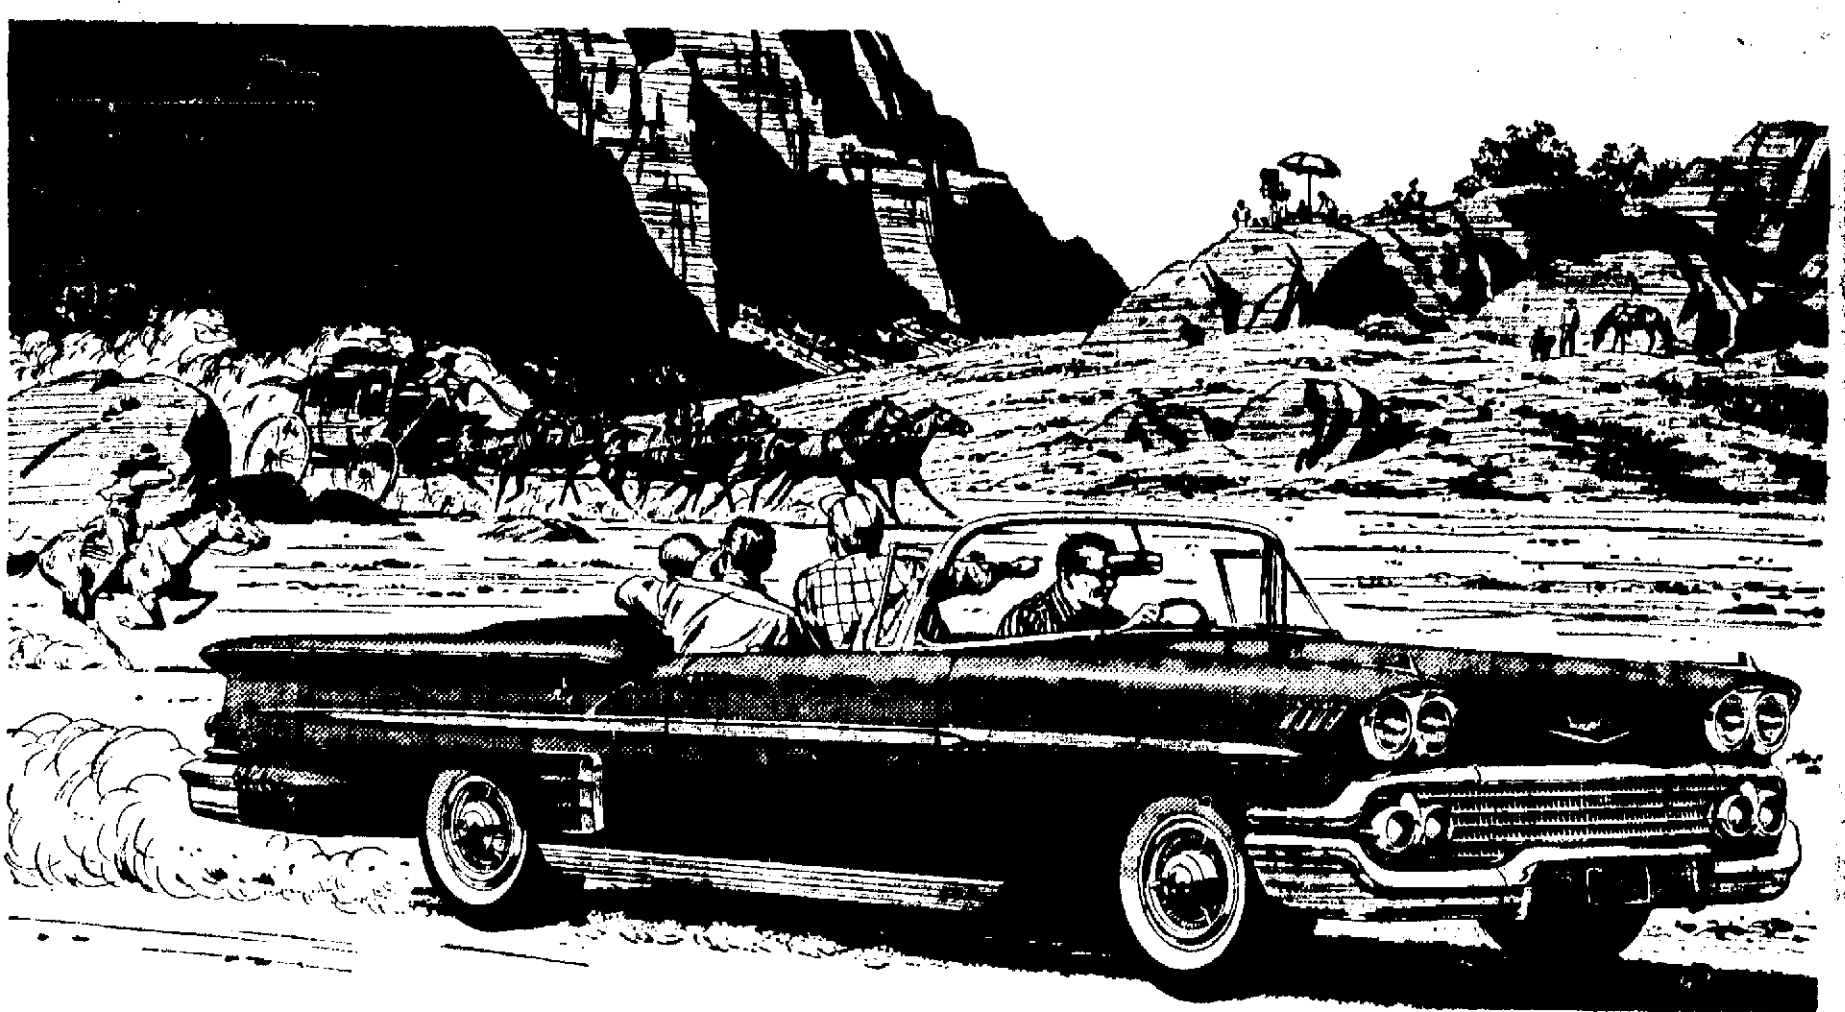

Ustinov, who also has a low opinion of most generals, has a basic reason to distrust sergeants. In four years in the British army in the second World war he rose to the rank of private.

Freight Train Derailed In Ozaukee County

Port Washington — A North Western road freight train northbound from Milwaukee to Green Bay was involved in a derailment today near Ulen in Ozaukee county.

The mishap blocked the line and division offices at Grein Bay said southbound trains would be rerouted during the day, until a wrecker can clear the track.

Line officials could not say immediately how many cars of the train, No. 187, were involved. However, they said no injuries were reported.

Science Helps Bolster Skimpy Diets of Today

BY SAM DAWSON
New York — Scientists are thinking up new ways today to help out those who eat what they like. They can afford neither a diet of fat nor a diet of protein. The food and chemical industries are joining hands in the drive. A newcomer is the fortification of cereal products with vitamins B6 and B12 and the amino acid L-lysine. This is aimed at giving bread and other cereal products a protein content to offset the diet deficiencies of those who don't or can't eat enough meat, milk and butter.

Pioneer in the fortification of food was the addition of iodine to table salt to improve the diet of persons living in areas where iodine is prevalent. Adding vitamin A to food came later. Robert R. Williams, of the Williams-Waterman fund for the combat of dietary diseases, Research Corp., New York, says today $7 million of synthetic vitamin A are used annually in foodstuffs and $2 million of vitamin B1 are added to cereals. Vitamin D in milk is widely used, especially in colder climates and for children who are bundled up and get little exposure to light, a natural source. Vitamin A is being added to margarine to help low income families and especially children, great eaters of bread. Ways are being sought to add it effectively to cooking fats for use in those lands where much of the diet is cooked in fats. Dr. N. W. Flodin and Dr. J. W. Brown, nutrition scientists with Du Pont, a L-lysine producer, hold that adding one quarter of a pound of the amino acid to 100 pounds of wheat flour give bread and other flour products high efficiency protein similar to that in meat or milk.

Protein Intake
They note that in low income brackets here and particularly in underdeveloped lands overseas protein intakes are low because cereals are a high percentage of the diets. Children everywhere need protein for growth and muscle development. Pregnant women also have special need for it. And older persons often rely heavily on cereal foods because they are quick to prepare, easy to chew and inexpensive.

Persons on diets by eating fewer calories may cut protein intake below the amount needed for good health. The scientists say the fortified bread would have fewer calories than most people seem to think. Dr. C. L. Wrenshall, director of technical service of Charles Pfizer and company now in the L-lysine field, says that nine slices of standard white bread equal one egg in protein value, but five slices of bread with L-lysine added is the egg's equal.

Produce Vitamins
Williams holds that chemical factories can now make vitamins, except B12, far more cheaply than the farmer can grow them as such. However, the vitamins are there in food as a natural component of the carbohydrates, fats and proteins which the farmer raises because people must have them to eat.

Doctors hold that an ideal balanced diet furnishes all the vitamins a healthy man needs. But too many of today's highly refined food products and low cost or unbalanced diets are skimpy on natural vitamins. That's why the scientists say that the problem of protein malnutrition, responsible for the world over for physically retarding human beings, may be licked with the aid of man-made amino acids.

Teenagers Hired To Slug, Rob Man, Testimony Shows

MILWAUKEE—Testimony in district court Wednesday disclosed that a 72-year-old man was slugged and robbed of about $1,200 by a pair of teenagers recruited for the job by two young men. The victim was Joseph J. Drezdon, who was slugged about a half block from a tavern where he had displayed a large roll of money. Police recovered $865 from the four involved. Drezdon required hospital treatment for the chest and head injuries he received in the assault on Monday.

Arraigned on charges of conspiracy to commit an unarmed robbery were Alex Czerwinski and Robert Tarkowski, both 21 and of Milwaukee. They were bound over to municipal court for trial under bond of $1,000 each. The boys, 15 and 16, were held in the detention home for children's court action.

Police said the Czerwinski and Tarkowski saw the roll of bills Drezdon carried, arranged with the two boys to take it, and then pointed him out when he left the tavern. The boys hid behind trees until Drezdon left the tavern, followed him, knocked him down and took the money.

Top Hats Club Tells New Officers, Agenda

New officers and dance dates for the ensuing season have been announced by the Top Hats Dance club. The group's 75 members, all residents of the Fox Cities, will be formally notified of the dance agenda by programs issued to them during March.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ertl have been chosen as co-presidents, with other officers being Mr. and Mrs. Roy Collier, vice presidents, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Voissem, secretaries, and Mr. and Mrs. Sid Edinger, treasurers.

Serving on the board of directors are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kolosso, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. John Meiers, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Symons and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Walker.

Dance agenda during 1958 opens with an informal dance May 3 at the American Legion Memorial building. Members will be joined by guests at an informal "guest night" dance Sept. 20 at the Menasha Elks club, while a semi-formal holiday ball has been scheduled Dec. 9 at Butte des Morts Golf club. The closing dance, to be held in February of 1959, will be staged at the Appleton Elks club.

Collection Amount Left Up to Person

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: When taking up a collection in order to send flowers to someone who has died, is it proper to ask for a specific amount or should each one give whatever amount he (or she) pleases? I was in charge of taking up such a collection recently and asked each one for a dollar. Some of the group resented this and think it was very high-handed on my part to tell them how much to contribute. They felt that it should have been left up to them to decide. Will you please give me your opinion?

Answer: You should have left it up to each one to give what he (or she) wanted to. You might, however, have said to anyone evidently trying to decide how much to give, "Most of the others have given a dollar."

Too Complicated

Dear Mrs. Post: Both my mother and my grandparents have contributed to my support, although I have always lived with the latter. I am close to all three and now that I am getting married I would like my mother's and my grandparents' names to appear on the invitations. By doing this I would avoid hurting any of their feelings. Would this be possible? If so, how would the invitation be worded?

Answer: It would be too complicated to explain on a formal invitation that you are the granddaughter of your grandparents and the daughter of your mother. The invitations should be in the name of your grandparents if they are giving you your wedding and your mother's name will be omitted. Or else the invitations should be in your mother's name alone.

Eating Hamburger

Dear Mrs. Post: My aunt tells me it is not good manners to pick up a whole round hamburger roll sandwich and that it should always (except perhaps at a picnic) be broken or cut in half. Is this correct?

Answer: Usually it is cut in half, but if you have no knife it is best to eat it whole since it is very difficult to sever neatly.

Varied Musical Events Slated For Lawrence Campus in March

The month of March will bring a variety of musical performances to the Lawrence campus.

At 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, the Lawrence Little Symphony will present a chamber orchestra concert at the conservatory of music. The 18-piece ensemble, selected from the larger college orchestra by its director Kenneth Byler, will feature music by Lully, Mozart, Haydn, Beethoven and James Ming, professor of theory and composition on the Lawrence faculty.

Student Recital, Play Wednesday night, March 5, will bring Soprano Leontyne Price to the Memorial chapel stage. Known to Appleton audiences for her leading roles in recent NBC-TV Opera Theatre productions, she first achieved fame singing the lead in Porgy and Bess along with William Warfield, who later became her husband.

A student recital at the conservatory Sunday night, March 9, will present Susanna Fortney, a junior voice and music education major from Viroqua and Dulcy Berlin, a senior voice and music education major from Elm Grove.

Friday afternoon, March 14, a general student recital will be held at the same hall.

Incidental music written by James Ming of the conservatory staff will be a feature of the Lawrence college theater's production of Shakespeare's "Much Ado About Nothing." Directed by Joan Caryl, the play will be presented in the student union Thursday through Saturday nights and Sunday afternoon March 13 through 16.

At 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, March 16, Allen Bonde, piano major from Manitowish and a student of Clyde Duncan, will present his senior recital. At the same hour a week later, Ronald Lee, piano major from Fond du Lac, will give his junior recital. Both recitals will be held at the conservatory.

Sunday night, March 23, the Lawrence Choral Society under Lavahn Maesch will assist in the annual lenten service at Memorial chapel. A student recital Friday afternoon, March 28, will round out the month's activities.

All performances are open to the public. Only the play and the Leontyne Price concert require tickets.

Girl Friend's Charming Until She Opens Mouth, Wails Beau

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN: I've been dating a girl who is charming and attractive, but the way she talks, you wouldn't think she had gotten past the fourth grade. She actually graduated from high school, but apparently when they were teaching grammar she was out to lunch.

I'm no purist but when she says "he don't" and "I seen," it does something to me. Several of her friends talk the same way and I can't understand how they can be deaf to such glaring grammatical errors.

Do you think it would be worth my time to teach her how to speak English? She's 19. — AG

First, how much is your time worth, and second, what qualities attracted you to this girl in the first place?

If you consider her an ignoramus and dare ashamed to introduce her to your friends, I suspect your association with her is not based on the spoken word.

In order to teach this 19-year-old how to speak the King's English, you'd have to de-educate her then re-educate her. Unless she's 10% eager to cooperate, it would be an uphill fight all the way, Pygmalion, and I suggest you forget it.

DEAR ANN: Our only son married a girl who was beneath him socially financially and mentally. Her father is a janitor. We tried to break up their romance, but failed.

They've been married five years and have two children.

When we go to their home to visit our daughter-in-law has very little to say and it's a struggle to keep a conversation going. They rarely come to our home and when they do, it's only for a short time.

Our son was very close to us until he married. It breaks our hearts because we know this girl has driven a wedge between us. Is there anything we can do to patch up the situation so our son will spend more time with us? We aren't getting any younger. — SAD MOTHER

Your son's wife doesn't keep him in chains does she? Well, he could visit you more often if he wanted to, so don't put all the blame on your daughter-in-law.

Chances are the wounds are still raw from the hatchet-job you did on the girl when you tried to break up the romance.

Sorry, I can't recommend any magic elixir that will cure the situation. Time is the only healer in a case such as this. And let's hope it doesn't take more time than you've got.

DEAR ANN: I'm a senior in high school and the fellow I used to go steady with for two years is at a nearby university. He mentioned last summer that it would be nice if I could come up to his campus for a weekend when they have some special activity.

I've written to him five different times, suggesting specific weekends but he always has some reason why I shouldn't come. I know he's studying hard but I'm afraid his school will be out before I get a chance to go. I've told my girl friends that he wants me up there and they keep asking when I'm leaving. It's very embarrassing. What shall I do? — ME

Why don't you get out of this boy's hair and do both him and yourself a favor? He knows when the social activity weekends are and you don't. He also knows your address.

He'll invite you when and if he wants to, assuming you haven't made yourself completely unattractive by pestering him to death.

Beauty

Know Uses, Care Of Fragrances

BY MARIAN MATTHEWS

Light bouquet fragrances might have been designed just for the teens their delicacy is so well suited to these years. To complement fresh, young beauty either the single flower or bouquet are equally good. A girl usually likes to try them all.

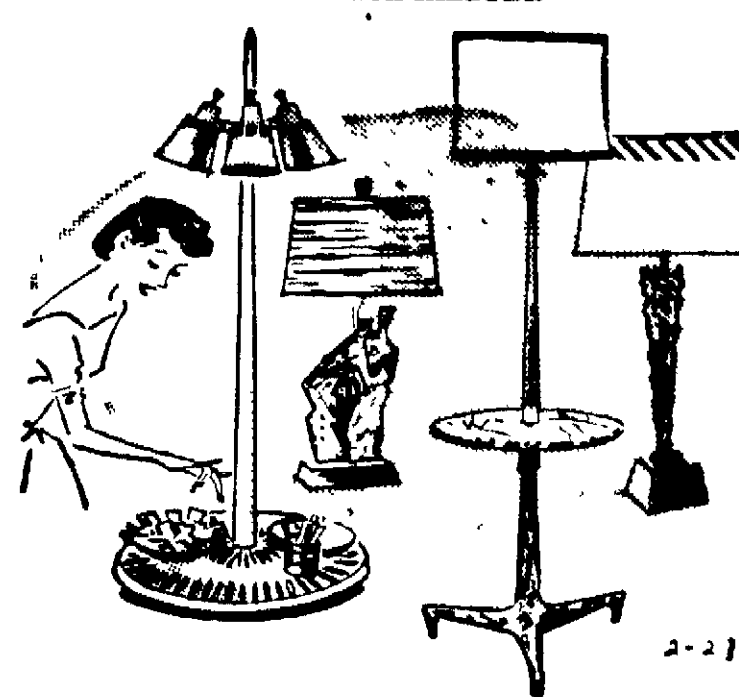

The girl who begins to collect a fragrance wardrobe of colognes and essences, should know something about their care and use. Keep the bottles away from light heat, such as direct sunlight and radiators. These are two of the first rules in preserving the true bouquet of a fragrance.

Use a fragrance as an accent applying it effectively but with good taste. Apply it to pulse spots such as temples, crook of elbows, wrists, throat. For those special occasions a girl might spray the ruffles on a petticoat or pin a little bit of cotton saturated with cologne to the hemline of a dress.

Fragrance in these lighter versions is less expensive and you might select something an excellent way to test whether or not you enjoy a particular scent after wearing it for a week or more. Whether you are a teen or not this is a good system for helping you decide more accurately what you favor in perfumes. Sometimes you can change your mind after a few hours wearing a new, or different fragrance. There's little to worry about whether or not a perfume is right for you—you are the best judge of this and if you continue to enjoy it day after day, week after week and year after year you can't be wrong. Don't get into a rut, however, change off occasionally when a new season arrives or your mood changes. Right now versions are less expensive and you might select something an excellent way to test whether or not you enjoy a particular season

Designing Woman

New Lamps—The Size and Shape They're in

One point that most new lamps insist on is that they stand tall in the room whether on a table or on the floor. They take their responsibilities as light sources seriously and at a good height they can provide more effective light. And many new lamps take on extra duty. One of the most unusual is the 45 inch high three bullet lamp sketched, which designer John Van Koert gave a lazy Susan tray base. Others incorporate tables, as the sketched floor lamp does, an elegant one designed by David Patience Jr. with creamy marble for the table-tray.

Few new lamps are satisfied to be mere decorations, but they are decorative. The bases of lamps that are 35 to 40 inches high are big enough to be important and some of them earn their importance by taking the shapes of modern sculpture. The bases of two lamps here are by sculptor Jason Seely and are executed in cast aluminum. The abstract figures in a steel finish on a teak base, the filigree with a Pre-Columbian look on ebony (Two lamps at left by Coloni at Premier at the right by Rembrandt).

Don Bosco Guild Plans Lenten Pilgrimage

An annual lenten pilgrimage is on the agenda for the Don Bosco guild in March. Scheduled for Sunday March 23 it will start at St. Joseph church in Appleton at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Guild members then will visit St. Patrick church, Menasha, St. Margaret Mary, Neenah and St. Peter church, Oshkosh.

Other March activities will include a guild toboggan party at Dyne's Tuesday March 4. Members will meet at the Catholic club at 7:30 in the evening. The guild will have its monthly mass and communion service at Sacred Heart church with a breakfast later at the patio.

The monthly business meeting will be at 8 o'clock Tuesday night, March 11, at St. Joseph school hall. It will be open to anyone interested in the guild's activities. Thursday, March 13, there will be swimming and volleyball at the Menasha high school gymnasium. Participants will leave the Catholic club at 6:30.

A roller skating party at the Rollarena in Menasha also is planned for March.

St. Therese Scouts Plan Family Event

The theme of 1958's Girl Scout week observance—"You can count on her to be of service"—will be carried out when the Girl Scouts of St. Therese parish hold their annual family communion and breakfast Sunday, March 2.

The 215 Brown and intermediate scouts and their parents will attend the 7:30 mass and will then be served breakfast by the parish Young Ladies Sodality. Jerome Captain will be toastmaster for the program and Mrs. William Grunes is serving as food chairman for the breakfast.

A welcome to mothers and fathers will be sung by the third and fourth grade Brownies with a response being sung by the parents. Seventh grade Troop 140 with Miss Dorothy Unnuth as leader will have a panel quiz on scouting and sixth grade Troop 73, with Mrs. John LeFevre as leader, will sing Girl Scout songs.

The flag ceremony will be conducted by eighth grade Troop 81, with the Misses Gordon Simon and Sylvester Lynch as leaders. John Boettcher will entertain the group with a juggling act.

On Girl Scout Sunday, March 9, the parish troops will attend the 7:30 mass and receive Holy Communion in a body with the Holy Name society.

The annual scout cookie sale will take place during Girl Scout week with Mrs. Ralph Moehring serving as chairman for St. Therese troops.

There are 13 troops of Girl Scouts in the parish this year and 62 registered adults who have volunteered as leaders, co-leaders or committee members. Mrs. Anthony Daleiden is the Girl Scout school chairman and troop organizer.

Correction

The ages of golden wedding anniversary celebrants, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Fischer, 1518 W. College avenue, were incorrectly listed in Tuesday's Post-Crescent. Mr. Fischer is 74 years old, and his wife is 69 years old.

Racial Stand Subject for Guild Program

Miss Elizabeth Wright, assistant professor in the religion department at Lawrence college, will speak and conduct a discussion on the subject "Where Do We Stand on Race?" when the Women's guild of Memorial Presbyterian church meets at 8 o'clock Tuesday night at the church.

Before coming to Lawrence Miss Wright taught at Vassar college and served on the National Council of Religion and Higher Education at New Haven, Conn., where she was executive director of the council.

Mrs. Robert R. Brown will lead devotions. Mrs. Douglas Ogilvie, chairman of the hostess committee, will be assisted by the Misses Winton Schumaker, Herbert Crane, Gerhard Willecke and L. W. Shannon.

William Warfield Happy Husband of Artist Series Star

Leontyne Price, brilliant young American soprano who will appear Wednesday evening, March 5 at Lawrence College chapel under the auspices of the Lawrence Community Artist series, has solved the age-old problem of home vs. career to the satisfaction of everyone, including her husband. "If you are a career woman," says Miss Price, "you've just got to get yours done when he's not there."

Miss Price is married to William Warfield, distinguished baritone who appeared here with the Chaminade chorus several years ago and who is slated to appear as guest artist with the MacDowell group May 3 at the Appleton High school auditorium. Warfield is as busy as she, so that even if she was strictly a homebody, much of their time would be spent apart. The baritone is proud of his wife's outstanding abilities and guides and encourages her in her career.

Chosen For Head
Leontyne and Bill met the day that the now internationally famous revival of "Porgy and Bess" went into rehearsal in New York in the summer of 1952. He was the star of the show, a concert singer renowned half way around the world who had just scored a smash popular success with his singing of "Ol' Man River" in the movie version of "Show Boat." She was only a few months out of the Juilliard school but had won the coveted title role opposite him through her performance on Broadway and in Paris in the Virgil Thomson - Gertrude Stein's "Four Saints in Three Acts."

After a few weeks of working together, they began to sing "Bess, You Is My Woman Now" for real, and by the time the show opened in Dallas, they were engaged. They were married in New York the day before the production took off for Europe and honeymooned, between performances for packed and cheering houses, in Vienna, Berlin, London and Paris. Because of concert commitments, Bill left the show before it returned to New York, while Leontyne continued on as Bess for another year before withdrawing to pursue her concert career.

Plan Joint Vacation
Even though crowded schedules keep them apart a great deal, the Warfields still manage to spend a lot of time together. They insist on a month's vacation at the same time every summer and often manage to get more than that between numerous summer festival engagements. They are sentimental about Christmas and will accept no engagements during the holidays so that they can be at home together.

While on tour they frequently have reunions. If there is a break in his schedule, Bill will join his wife on tour. Sometimes their paths cross and they spend a few days together before taking up their separate ways again. Occasionally, Bill will alter traveling arrangements to fly to a city where Leontyne is singing. She has ceased to be surprised at his unexpected backstage appearances.

The popular artists have frequent New York engagements, in opera or concert, on radio or television, and these dates often happily overlap. When Leontyne sang her widely acclaimed Tosca with the NBC-TV Opera theater, Bill watched their home television screen in the afternoon. That night Leontyne had her turn, when Bill sang on Ed Sullivan's "Toast of the Town."

Same Booking Manager
Both artists have the same personal manager and booking direction, and as a result schedules are kept as closely coordinated as possible. This is not too difficult as the heaviest demand for singers is always during winter. When Leontyne was invited by the state department to tour India, she accepted happily because Bill would be off at the same time touring Africa.

Some day Miss Price hopes to settle down and raise a family. There will be time for that later on, she says. She is in her middle twenties and feels right now, that her career's the thing. Bill agrees with her viewpoint.

Review Clubs
Slate Meetings
Over the Teacups club will meet at 2:30 Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Donald Purdy, 6 Brokaw place. Mrs. William Kolb will present the program.

Monday club will meet at 1:30 Monday afternoon for a dessert program. Mrs. Elizabeth Lindsay will be hostess and Mrs. A. F. Tuttle will give the program.

Leontyne Price, Young American soprano who will be the fourth featured performer in the Lawrence Community Artist series on Wednesday evening, March 5, is shown in her role as Bess with her husband, William Warfield, who played Porgy. The two stars met in 1952 when Miss Price who chosen to play opposite Warfield in George Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess." Warfield will appear in Appleton May 3 as guest artist with the McDowell Male chorus at the Appleton High school auditorium.

Rumored That Princess May Marry a Commoner

BY VASSO MINGOS

Athens, Greece—Rumors that 19-year-old Princess Sophia of Greece may marry a commoner are spreading in Athens. The names of no less than three suitors are being bandied about.

All three belong to the ship-owners' caste, which is the top-drawer caste here. All three are tall, dark and handsome. The rumors say their chances are just about equal.

One is 23-year-old George Livanos, son of a multimillionaire shipowner, and brother-in-law to two more—Aristotle Socrates Onassis and Stavros Niarchos.

Another is suave, polished John Goulondris, 27, who operates the Greek Line.

The third is Petros Nomikos, 25, whose father may not be quite as wealthy but is on intimate terms with the Greek royal family.

The marriage prospects of the slim, blue-eyed, fair-haired princess has been the subject of conjecture for some time now. One name that has persistently made the rounds of embassies here as a possible suitor, was that of Belgium's King Baudouin. That was before the names of the commoners got into the rumors.

As King Paul's eldest daughter, Princess Sophia ranks second in succession to 17-year-old Crown Prince Constantine. She could marry a commoner only if she waived her rights and prerogatives, Greek constitutional law experts say.

Princess Sophia herself goes about her daily round of duties

Princess Sophia

—one of which is taking care of babies in an infant asylum—seemingly unconcerned by the rumors.

Homemakers See Food Display

Lenten and Easter foods were demonstrated by Mrs. Bernice Skarda of the Appleton Vocational school staff for the Appleton Homemakers Wednesday afternoon at the Vocational school.

Recipes shown were an egg'n pimento cottage cheese salad, baked fish fillet, pink pinwheel bavarian and Easter bunny cake.

Mrs. Oscar Christenson, chairman of the hostess committee, was assisted by Mrs. Howard Locklin, co-chairman.

Desire for Beauty Cosmetic Surgeon Supplies Women Who Nature Denied

BY HAL BOYLE
New York (U.S.)—Cosmetic surgery today has become a booming branch of medicine—and three out of four patients are women.
“That is because women in our culture are expected to be beautiful,” said Dr. Robert A. Franklyn, a top specialist in the field, “whereas men are expected only to be talented and good providers.”
Dr. Franklyn estimated there are 250,000 plastic (or cosmetic) surgery operations a year in the United States. He breaks them down as follows:
Nose operations—70 per cent.
Face lifting—15 per cent.
Breast operations—10 per cent.
Others—5 per cent.
But the amazing development to Dr. Franklyn is the “bust boom” created by women who now look to surgeons to provide them with the fuller bosom nature denied them.
“In another few years, if our present bosom culture continues,” he remarked, “breast operations will make up 50 per cent of all cosmetic surgery.”
“Formerly, the objective in this type of operation was a reduction in the size of the bosom. Now 90 per cent of the women want a larger bosom.

“This comes about because of a change in beauty goals. The old skinny, flat silhouette of the high-fashion model is out. The goal of womanly beauty today is a round, curvy, healthy look.”

Cosmetic surgery has been immensely speeded in the last decade.

“A woman can now get a new breast in 15 minutes,” said Dr. Franklyn, “a new nose in 10 minutes, or a face lift in 30 minutes. These no longer are hospital operations. They are beauty parlor surgery.”

The doctor, husband of actress Vanessa Brown, has operated on many film stars, but this type of surgery today is gone in for by the masses.

Often Psychological
“The typical female now is a 24-year-old housewife who is flat chested and has some marital difficulties,” he said. “She feels that if she had a fuller bosom she could win back her husband—and it often does. She feels more adequate. Often these things are mainly psychological.”

“We have found, for example, that salesmen average $1,300 a year more the year after facial surgery to correct some physical defect—bags under the eyes, protruding ears, receding chins—that impaired their self-confidence.”

Dr. Franklyn, who has performed more than 25,000 cosmetic operations, uses an inert plastic substance called sugi-foam to round out or shape new bosoms and chins or to fill depressions in the bridge of the nose. Unlike earlier plastic, he said, the body does not react to the new material.

Annoyed by Vanity-Seekers
Although Dr. Franklyn advocates cosmetic surgery for the correction of major physical defects, he is annoyed by those who seek it out of minor vanity.

“Some girls want an operation merely to give them dimples,” he complained, “and now and then a man shows up asking if, please, can he have a cleft in his chin like Cary Grant.”

“But I don’t believe in gold-plating a lily!”

Proxmire Asks Pilot Plant For Newsprint Introduces Bill to Establish Paper Mill Under Federal Loan

Sen. William Proxmire introduced a bill in the senate today to authorize establishment of a pilot plant paper mill in northern Wisconsin for making newsprint out of low-grade hardwoods.

The bill provides funds for the small business administration to loan up to $5 million to a qualified small business concern to finance building or acquisition of the pilot plant newsprint mill. Forest Products Laboratory scientists would be authorized to carry out research and experimental work in connection with it.

Proxmire said, “At current prices, Wisconsin’s hardwood forests represent a potential billion dollar renewable resource, waiting to be tapped. Development of this industry won’t compete with Wisconsin’s present paper industry because no newsprint is now being manufactured in the state. And it will help relieve publishers from recurring newsprint shortages.”

This kind of forest industry can be a supplement to the other resources in northern Wisconsin, providing part-time and seasonal work in the woods to supplement the jobs now available in farming, the vacation and recreation industry and others, Proxmire said.

Site Selection
“The Small Business administration and the Forest Service would be authorized to select the site for the plant, taking into account supply of hardwoods, water, coal or hydro-electric power and the willingness of local interests to cooperate. It will, of course, benefit communities other than the one that is selected for the pilot plant,” Proxmire explained.

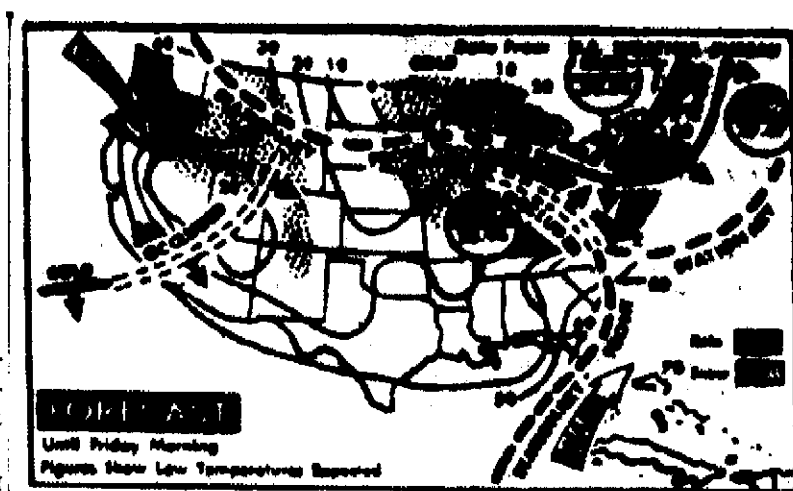

Commercial aspects of the project would be in the hands of the private business concern, which would cooperate in research and experimentation work of the Forest Products laboratory, the senator said. Once the basic scientific techniques have been proven in this commercial-scale operation, other enterprises can utilize them in other mills, without needing special financing or research grants, Proxmire concluded.

Children’s Story Hour

Miss Janet Meili, children’s librarian, will tell “Six Foolish Fishermen,” “Brother Alonzo” and “Five Golden Wrens” at 10:30 Saturday morning during the Appleton public library’s weekly story hour for children.

It Will be Colder Tonight from the northern plains to the gulf states and slightly warmer in the extreme northeast. Rain is forecast from the central Mississippi valley to the Atlantic coast with snow expected through the northern lakes and the upper Mississippi valley. Light snow is expected in the Rockies and the mountains of the northwest with showers likely for the north Pacific coast and southern California. (AP Wirephoto)

Rain Turns Out To be Mostly Just Drizzle

The expected general rainfall for Wisconsin and the Fox Cities turned out to be a mild substitute as drizzle covered most of the state today.

The drizzle began in Appleton about 2 o’clock this morning and had accumulated to .02 of an inch by 9 o’clock this morning, according to the weather station at the Wisconsin Michigan Power company. Temperatures remained unseasonably mild, with overnight minimums ranging from 32 at Superior to 38 at Beloit and La Crosse.

Appleton had a low of 35 overnight after a high of 49 Wednesday. The temperature at 11 o’clock this morning was still 35, with the wind from the east at 20 miles an hour.

The state forecast calls for occasional rain and windy tonight, with rain changing to snow in the north portion with a brief period of freezing likely in the north. Friday will be windy with occasional snow in the north and rain or snow in the south. It will be colder in the north Friday. The low tonight will be from 25 to 32 in the north and in the 30s in the south. The high Friday will be from 28 to 34 in the north and from 34 to 38 in the south.

The state highway department reported today all main roads in Wisconsin were bare of ice and snow and in good shape for winter driving.

Elsewhere in the country, heavy rain pelted sections from southeastern Missouri into Mississippi and western Alabama. Widespread precipitation was reported in most of the plains and eastward into the Mississippi valley. Snow fell over much of the northern plains.

Dissemination of PTA Newsletters Through Schools to Continue

Action Taken After Blasting of Article by Mayor; Must Deal With Issues, Principals

Menasha — The continued dissemination of Parent-Teacher association newsletters through Menasha public schools and students was approved by the school board Wednesday night provided articles in the newsletters deal with issues and principles and not candidates for political office.

The action followed Mayor R. G. DuCharme's blasting an article in a Butte des Morts PTA newsletter at a council meeting Feb. 19. Mayor DuCharme said a number of school board members voiced opposition to distribution of such literature. Commissioner Harry Kind said he considered the article in question well written and couldn't find anything offensive or political about it. "The PTA could declare war on Russia and it wouldn't be any concern of ours," he said.

Commissioner John Pawlowski, Jr., stated he read the article and only issues were mentioned, not individuals. He stressed that at the last board meeting only two commissioners were opposed to the letter and the board as a whole did not take a stand on the issue.

Oppose Distribution
Board member James Omachinski stated he didn't care what the PTA's did at their meetings but objected to the way the literature was distributed. Commissioner Harold Haberman agreed the newsletters shouldn't be sent via the schools and students.

Haberman voted against the motion to approve continued dissemination of newsletters through the schools because he believed board President Robert Farrell and Commissioner Ted R. Neely, who were absent, should be able to express their views.

John McCune, co-president of the Butte des Morts PTA along with his wife, said the newsletter was distributed on Jan. 5 and he had hoped the matter would die a long time ago.

He emphasized the national PTA organization has encouraged discussion of issues by its members and that he had sent copies of the disputed article to state and national headquarters.

"Our next newsletter will ask members to get out and vote and will tell who is running for office — and that's all," McCune stressed.

Menasha Schoolboard Approves 7-Period Day

Instructors to Teach Extra Class With No Pay Increase; to be Tried Temporarily

Menasha — Menasha Junior and Senior High school will be operated on a 7-period day next year to alleviate crowded conditions, the board of education decided Wednesday night.

The board's curriculum committee discussed the change with Kenneth Reinke, Menasha Teachers union president; Miss Warrine Sherman, Menasha Education association president; H. L. Sherman, Vocational school director; Miss Edythe Sanderman, elementary school supervisor, and Gegan before coming to a decision.

In other action the new Clovis and Butte des Morts grade school principals will be relieved of their teaching chores half of each school day to devote more time to the principal's job.

Supt. Gegan pointed out the grade school principals are being called out of their rooms more frequently now and can't do an effective job of teaching. If the new plan works, the other two elementary school principals might also teach on a half day basis, Gegan emphasized.

Commissioner John Pawlowski, Jr., said the schools are "bulging with students" and a 7-period day was the only improvement in their cooperation in the contest.

An increase of $175 a year was granted to teachers instructing in both the high school and vocational school effective in September. It was stressed the increase will be received only by those instructors who have attained a senior "A" rating.

Architect Wright Tells of Self, Buildings in Book

Neenah — The autobiography of one of the most controversial Americans of the 19th and 20th centuries is now available at the Neenah Public library. "A Testament" by Frank Lloyd Wright tells the experiences and the ideas of the famous architect, and offers 210 pictures and drawings of his buildings. Sketches of the John Racine, Madison's First Unitarian church and the proposed mile high building in Chicago are presented. The picture of the radical Chicago structure is on a four page foldout.

Another new volume at the library is "Nuclear Weapons and Foreign Policy" by Henry A. Kissinger of the council on foreign relations. Kissinger stands on the ground that war can be avoided only by being ready for it, and suggests certain diplomatic and strategic means to deter aggression should it come.

"Peril and Promise" by Gerald W. Johnson of the Baltimore Sunpapers is an inquiry into freedom of the press. Johnson says that Americans always have and always will get the kind of newspapers they deserve, and that only

Delay Opening Sewage Plant Until March 20

Duct Installation
Remains Before
Addition Is Ready

Menasha — Another delay in the opening of the Twin Cities $1 million addition to its sewage plant, was announced today.

The opening of the addition, originally scheduled for December, 1957, and then put off until March 1, was set for March 20 by the general contractor, Arnold Sorensen, sewage plant superintendent, estimated the opening may be even later.

All the equipment for the addition has arrived but some of it still has to be installed. The biggest project left is the installation of ducts from the incinerators to the chimney.

One of the two new vacuum filters went into operation the latter part of January and has run to perfection. The other filter will be used when the addition is opened.

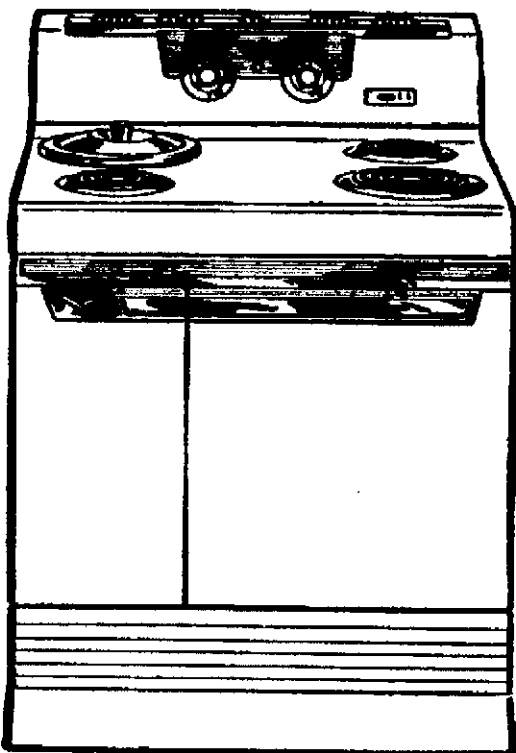

The 5-story building, which is 70 feet long, 120 feet wide and 80 feet high, was finished and all the windows were installed in December. A 150 foot high chimney also has been completed.

Dedication of the addition will probably be held in the summer.

Jays, Raiders Play Off 4th Place Tie

Kimberly Defeat Would Give Winner a Deadlock for Third

Menasha — Undisputed fourth place, with a chance to tie for third, will be the prize as Menasha closes its Mid-Eastern conference schedule at Two Rivers Friday night.

Going into the windup collision, the Raiders and Bluejays, both have 7-6 records to deadlock for the fourth and fifth spots. They are a game behind third-place Kimberly, which

Hewitt's, St. John Matched in First BABA Playoff Tilt

Neenah — Two Twin City quintets will be involved in Badger Amateur Basketball association playoff action this weekend at Hortonville.

Hewitt's Machines will play St. John at 7 o'clock Saturday night and Green Bay and Hortonville collide at 8:30. The winners and losers will play each other Sunday night.

Sunday's victors will clash with the winners of the northern division for the league title. Last year Hewitt's copied the championship by downing the Reservation all-stars.

The teams with the four best records are eligible for the playoffs. Green Bay has 12-0, Hewitt's 10-2, Hortonville 7-4 and St. John 7-5.

Volleyballers Close 2nd Round Schedule; Lakeview Team Leads

Menasha — The Fraternal Volleyball league will close second round play with three matches at the Butte des Morts gym tonight. Lakeview, which has an 11-1 first place record, meets First Congregational at 7 o'clock. The former also took the first half title and two wins tonight will give it the grand championship.

Bergstrom's and McHugh and Septie Service clash in the 7:30 match and Whiting Baptist, Christopher's vie at 8:40.

The standings include Lakeview 11-1, Christopher's 9-3, Whiting Baptist 7-5, Congregational 5-7, McHugh's 4-8 and Bergstrom's 0-12.

boasts an 8-5 mark. The Menasha-Two Rivers winner would deadlock for the No. 3 position should the Papermakers lose to Kaukauna.

Eventful Schedule For Menasha, the game will write fins to an eventful schedule, a season climaxed by a fine second half comeback. After the first half of the season the Jays found themselves down in sixth place with a dismal 2-5 record. In late January the team began to jell. It won five straight, reversing three first round losses in doing so and almost avenged the fifth, but bowed in two overtimes and a round of free throws to Neenah. At Two Rivers, they will have an opportunity to avenge another earlier reverse.

Brault Stopped While the Bluejays improved in the second meeting with their conference foes, the opposite has held true for the Raiders. For one thing, opponents seem to have caught up with Ron Brault, the conference's second best scorer, with result that the Purple and Gold bar split even in its six second round starts.

Brault, who hit 30 or more points on four occasions early in the season, was set down with seven by Shawano last Saturday and he exceeded the 20-mark only a few times during the last couple of weeks.

Opponents have also begun to put the clamps on Dale Kozlowski and Dick Knope, who had been Brault's chief scoring aides. Shawano held Knope to four free throws and Kozlowski to a single basket. Both have been consistently in the double figures.

Raiders Cop 56-51 However, Gerry Messman meets First Congregational at 7 o'clock. The former also took the first half title and two wins tonight will give it the grand championship.

Bergstrom's and McHugh and Septie Service clash in the 7:30 match and Whiting Baptist, Christopher's vie at 8:40.

The standings include Lakeview 11-1, Christopher's 9-3, Whiting Baptist 7-5, Congregational 5-7, McHugh's 4-8 and Bergstrom's 0-12.

The teams with the four best records are eligible for the playoffs. Green Bay has 12-0, Hewitt's 10-2, Hortonville 7-4 and St. John 7-5.

Rockets Duel Indian Squad

Bid for Title Tie in Finale On NHS Court

Neenah — Its first Mid-Eastern conference basketball crown since 1951 and revenge for one of its two losses will be the double goal of Neenah when it entertains Shawano in the Mid-eastern conference game of the week here Friday night.

Since 1951, when the Rockets tied Menasha for Mid-Eastern conference basketball honors, the cage title has evaded them although the school has at least two titles in every other sport sponsored by the circuit since then.

Shawano, which is assured of a portion of the crown and can cop all by itself with a repeat win over the Rockets, brings an 18-1 record into the contest while Neenah has 16-2. The Indians are still ranked No. 1 in the state and Neenah currently holds the sixth spot.

Statistically, the Rockets have the better defensive mark in conference play while the Indians have the best offensive total. In 13 games, Shawano has scored 978 points or an average of slightly better than 75 per cent. Neenah's conference output is 810 or something better than 62 per cent.

Neenah, which has the league's best defensive record, has allowed 649 points or a very fine 49 per cent while Shawano's opponents have broken through its defenses for 687 points or 52 per cent.

High Shawano Total Neenah's best offensive mark was 76 against New London and the low 41 in last week's thrilling win over Menasha. The top total made by a Rocket opponent was 74 by the Indians in their first meeting and the low, 37 by Menasha.

Shawano's high game total for the year was 94 against Two Rivers last Saturday night. It hit 93 in the first game against Kimberly. Low for the year was the 56 in the loss to Menasha.

High for an opponent was Kimberly's 74 and the low 25 by Clintonville in the second game of the season.

The game will mark fins to a conference career for several boys who have seen varsity action for three and four years. They include John Cantwell and Marty Gharitty of Shawano, four- and three-year veterans respectively, and Ed Meyer and Fred Seggelink, Neenah varsity performers for a trio of seasons.

Shawano broke Neenah's 11-game winning string with a 74-68 win at Shawano on Jan. 24. The Rockets found themselves in arrears 21-13 at the end of the first quarter and never could come back all the way.

Marty Gharitty, who needs 35 points against the Rockets to establish a new conference scoring mark, had 30 points for Shawano and Seggelink, although playing with an injured foot, hit 20 for the Red and White.

The Neenah High School conservation club's rabbit trapping project, which began last December, is scheduled to close this weekend. Shown looking at the plaques which will be awarded at the annual chili supper on March 11 are Marv VanOudenhoven and Terry Karahn. As of Wednesday, the trappers had bagged 633 bunnies, the highest total in 21-year history of the project. (Post-Crescent Photo)

The Fox River Valley conference basketball race has almost as many possible outcomes as a Hitchcock mystery. A pair of high-tension wind-up duels — in the Appleton high and Green Bay West high gyms — Friday night will determine which of four potential ways 1957-8 titular glory will be distributed.

If the co-leading Appleton Terrors and Manitowoc Ships both win — over Green Bay East and West, respectively — they'll share the crown.

Seek 10th Straight
If the red-hot Terrors run up their tenth consecutive win, while West is repeating an earlier surprise against Manty, they will win their second straight outright title.

If the talented Red Devils stop the Terrors for the first time in their last six tries and Manty whips West, the Ships will celebrate their first undisputed title since 1929.

If both Green Bay quints upend the pace-setters, there'll be the first triple title tie in FRVC history. East would then join AHS and Manty at the top with 11-3 records.

For the third time in the last four years, AHS will enter the final night of the season with a chance for all or part of the big prize in the FRVC basketball sweepstakes.

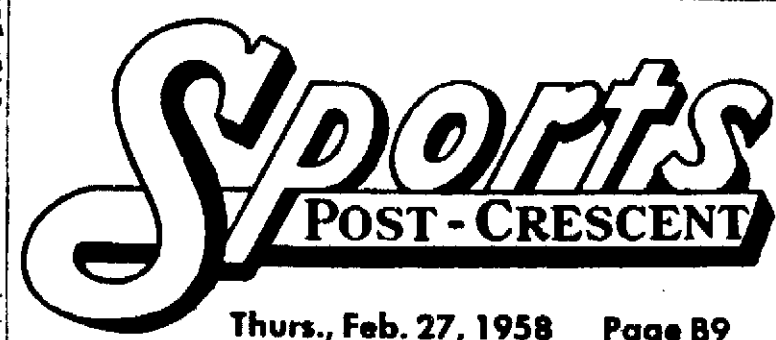

Three years ago, the Terrors lost in overtime to Manitowoc on such an occasion. As it turned out, though, AHS could not have shared in the title since Oshkosh — which entered the evening a full game ahead — won on another front.

Take Showdown Win
Last year, the Terrors won the title by taking a 1-point showdown decision from Shaboygan North before one of the largest crowds in AHS history.

The 1957-8 edition of the Terrors has already won the most conference games in Coach Dick Emanuel's 5-year regime. The previous high was 10 last year.

Catholic Regional Cage Meet Opens Friday at St. John

Zephyrs Play St. Nazianz in First Game

Little Chute — Four teams are set to open action in the Catholic regional basketball tournament Friday night in the St. John high school gym.

St. Mary of Menasha meets St. Gregory of St. Nazianz in the first game, at 7 o'clock. St. Mary Springs of Fond du Lac will face St. John of Little Chute in the finale, at 8:30.

Title Game Sunday
The championship and consolation games will be played Sunday afternoon. Losers will meet for consolation honors at 1 o'clock and the title tilt will be at 3 o'clock.

The meet should provide some close games, especially those involving the three Fox Valley Catholic conference schools.

Springs holds two wins over Menasha (St. Mary) and St. John has beaten Springs twice. Menasha has defeated St. John on two occasions this season.

St. Gregory has not met any of the three teams but was stopped by the St. John junior varsity team on two occasions. The Zephyrs are not expected to have much trouble moving into the finals.

Last year, the same four teams met in the first round of the regional here. St. Mary had little trouble getting by St. Gregory, and St. John tipped Springs, 68-55.

In finals, St. Mary edged St. John, 47-42, to gain a state meet berth.

The Menashans rule as slight journey favorite since they tied for the conference championship with Premontre of Green Bay. St. Mary had a 8-2 record in league play. St. John followed in third place with a 6-4 mark and Springs was fourth with 5-5.

Each team will be limited to 10 players in the tourney.

Jim Root Added To Tulane Staff
New Orleans — Jim Root, former quarterback with the professional Chicago Cardinals and the Ottawa Roughriders in the Canadian pro circuit, has been signed as backfield coach at Tulane.

Tulane Coach Andy Pilney said Wednesday the 26-year-old Root will replace John Mazur, who resigned recently to take a similar job at Marquette. Root was graduated from Miami university (Ohio) in 1953.

March 2, 1955, was a long time ago.

Since then, the Braves have brought Milwaukee its first world baseball championship, Sputniks and nutniks started keeping company in outer space and Elvis shaved his sideburns.

But, since that March evening three years ago, (when it beat Ripon) the Lawrence college basketball team hasn't won a game away from its own Alexander gym.

All three of the Vikes' victories during the past three campaigns have been accomplished at their E. South River street address, including Saturday's 71-66 win over Cornell that broke a losing skein at 36 games.

Thus, when Coach Don Boya's young men unpack their gear at Monmouth college Friday night they'll be in search of the school's first win in 30 road games. The 29 straight away-from-home losses includes 10 during 1955-6 10 last season, and nine thus far this campaign.

If the Vikings fail to put an end to all this against sixth place Monmouth Friday evening, they'll get another chance at Knox Saturday.

Final Game Monday
The Siwashers have what is apparently the easiest assignment of the three remaining Midwest conference title contenders this weekend, playing host to eighth-place Ripon as well as the ninth-ranking Lawrence.

Carleton, currently one game ahead with two to go, must play at Cornell Friday night and Coe Saturday.

The defending co-champion Kohawks welcome fifth place St. Olaf Friday before Saturday's face-to-face clash with the Carls. This weekend's pairings complete the 1957-8 conference season except for next Monday evening's Ripon at Lawrence date.

Though they've finally found the winning combination, the

Mantle Signs For Reported $68,000 Salary

St. Petersburg, Fla. — Mickey Mantle signed a 1-year contract with the New York Yankees today for an estimated $68,000, the third highest salary in Yankee history.

Mantle, the most valuable player of the American league for the past two years, agreed to terms after a meeting with Lee MacPhail, director of the team's personnel.

The outfielder hit .365 last year. In 1956 he led the league in batting, home runs and runs batted in.

The highest paid Yankee of all time was Joe DiMaggio, who received $90,000 plus a bonus arrangement in 1949. "Babe" Ruth, the home run king, was paid $80,000 in 1927 and 1928.

Mantle reportedly received $58,000 last year.

Eight Vikes to Enter Loop Swimming Meet

An 8-man Lawrence college swimming team, headed by Co-Captains Dick Bjornson and Mike Lepawsky, will represent the host school in this weekend's Midwest conference meet in the Alexander gym pool.

Friday's swimming preliminaries begin at 3:45 with the diving finals starting at 7:30 in the evening. The swimming finals, Saturday afternoon, get under way at 1 o'clock.

Defending champion Knox is expected to get a stern challenge from powerful Grinnell, whose 3-year title reign the Siwashers ended last season.

This season the Pioneers scored 1-sided victories over Knox and league opponents Lawrence, Carleton, St. Olaf and Monmouth.

Also Threats
Cornell and Carleton are expected to be threats for top places. Lawrence, St. Olaf and Monmouth are also entered.

The Vikings' hopes for a good showing rest with the likes of Bjornson, Lepawsky, Mike Murphy and Pete Switzer.

Lepawsky is the defending conference champion in the 200-yard breast stroke. He won the event last season in 2:35.1. The year. By winning Friday, the Terrors can equal the title-winning 12-2 record of Myrlon Seims' final AHS quint (1952-3).

A win would also stretch on AHS success streak to its greatest length in at least seven years. At nine straight, the current unit is tied with the mark established by the exciting Terror team of 1955-6.

However, this will take quite a bit of doing. For the Terrors will be grappling with foes: the East quintet and the law of averages.

Seeks to Repeat

AHS has notched five successive wins during a period in which the teams have been well matched on paper. The last three of these have come by the blade-thin margins of 61-60, 65-64 and 61-58.

East's By Prentice, well on his way to becoming the third individual scoring champion in FRVC history to repeat, has never played in a winning game against AHS in his three seasons. In five games, he has averaged 19.2 points, with his respective totals of 4-7-35-30-20.

By the same token, Jack Ulwelling and Tom Verkuilen—the Terrors' only 3-year performers—have never played in a losing game against East. Against the Red Devils, Ulwelling has hit 6-10-19-11-15 points. Verkuilen's totals have been 0-4-8-12-9.

The Terrors have stamped themselves as a better clutch club than East to date. Despite the presence of Prentice and Tom Hughbanks—another of the league's premier scorers—East has lost all three of its games against its two major foes. Besides the 3-point loss to AHS, East lost twice to Manitowoc, 61-58 and 74-62.

AHS has taken two of its three starts from its chief rivals. In addition to beating East, the Terrors split a pair with Manty.

Roll to Lead

In the game at East last month, the Terrors rolled to a 10-point (35-25) halftime lead. East fought back to tie the issue at 54-all with 3:20 left in the game. Ulwelling's bulls-eye sent the Terrors ahead to stay. Two baskets by Ron Abel and a free throw by Howie Hamann added the cement. Five of the seven Terrors who saw action etched between nine and 15 points apiece into the scoring column.

Eight Terrors, including expected starters Ulwelling, Hamann, Verkuilen, Dick King and Bill Bedard, will be playing their final conference basketball game. The others are Jim Zoelk, Dick Koepke and Tom Taylor.

Having demonstrated their ability to play top-grade FRVC ball, sophomores Abel and John Nussbaum give AHS a team of virtually "seven regulars" day.

Nussbaum and Abel have been

Ernie Banks Is Determined To Get Faster Start in '58

Mesa, Ariz. — (AP) — Ernie Banks, the brightest light in the National league cellar where the Chicago Cubs have been immersed the last two seasons, hopes to get the Bruins off to a faster start this year.

The Cubs' slugging shortstop, whose inability to hit full stride the past two years until mid-season, is getting an early start in spring training.

Banks, 27, and with the Cubs since the end of the 1953 season, reported a week early at the spring training camp and appears as eager as a rookie in his conditioning program.

The Key Man

Regarded by Manager Bob Scheffing as the key man in the Cubs hopes to get out of the second division—where they have been since 1947—Banks is training with the first contingent of early arriving Cubs. The second squad reports Friday.

Weight Limits Set on County Trunk Highways

Six-Ton Maximum Posting for Spring Thaw Breakup Period

The Outagamie county highway department Wednesday posted 17 county trunks for weight limitations of 12,000 pounds or six tons per axle.

The posting is an annual one, usually issued about the time spring thawing causes surface buckling and boils in the county trunk system surfaces.

Roads affected by the order are:

A between Highways 10 and 47.

BB between Highway 45 and the Winnebago county line.

G between Seymour and County Trunk Y.

D from three miles north of Highway 10 to the Winnebago county line.

M between Highway 54 and the Winnebago county line.

O between Highway 76 and a railroad crossing west of Mackville.

U between Highway 96 and County Trunk EE.

CC, HH, K, MM, TT, UU, W, X and XX for their entire lengths.

State Also Acts

The state highway commission also announced the temporary suspension of portions of the annual permits allowing vehicles to carry loads exceeding the statutory weight limitations.

The order, effective March 10, is suspended each year during the period when state trunk highway roadbeds are generally unstable due to spring thawing.

The commission, said that emergency situations which may arise will be handled by special permits for single trips with specific loads.

Maurandia

Indoor Gardening

Maurandia a Beautiful Vine, Known as Climbing Foxglove

By Katherine B. Walker

If you don't grow Maurandia this year, you will be missing out on one of the loveliest vines I have ever known. It is easily grown from seed or you may buy the plants already started.

Or if you know someone who has the plant, beg a cutting and root it in a small glass of water. It will begin flowering within a short time.

Often called Climbing Foxglove, from the shape of the flowers, Maurandia scandens (shown here) has large purple blossoms. Other varieties may flower in white or rose, if you prefer lighter colors. You may have seen this vine used as an annual in the outdoor garden, but it is really a perennial and will flower almost constantly when protected from freezing temperatures.

Last summer, after Maurandia had flowered all winter and spring indoors, I set the plant out beside the garden gate, and each visitor who saw the huge bright purple blossoms wanted a piece of it. Fortunately, Maurandia branches freely so there was always a good supply of cuttings available. Just before frost I rooted two for myself, planted them in an indoor window-box, and within a month they had climbed to the top of the window and were blooming freely.

Give Maurandia a very rich loam and ample water; it is a thirsty vine, and will need water every day unless it has plenty of root-room. The leaves are rather thin and burn easily, so give it a cool, shaded window. Seed-pods may be allowed to ripen on the vine, and though some of the older leaves along the length of vine bearing seed-pods may dry up, new growth will soon appear from every axil.

Questions and Answers

What is your opinion of gibberellin?

I prefer to keep my opinions on this to myself for a while longer. The limited amount of experimentation I have done with products containing gibberellin does not qualify me to approve or disapprove its use.

Is it all right to paint clay flower pots with regular indoor house paint?

I have used this type of paint on clay pots without damage to the plants in them. You may find the paint is inclined to blister and peel off unless the pots are properly prepared before the paint is applied.

How can plants breathe in ceramic or metal containers?

Plants breathe mostly through their leaves. Air will reach the roots, however, through friable, porous soil.

Where do you get your plants?

Aside from those given me by friends, I get my plants from local sources or from growers.

Diving Green Frog of Cork Looks Real in Vase or Bowl

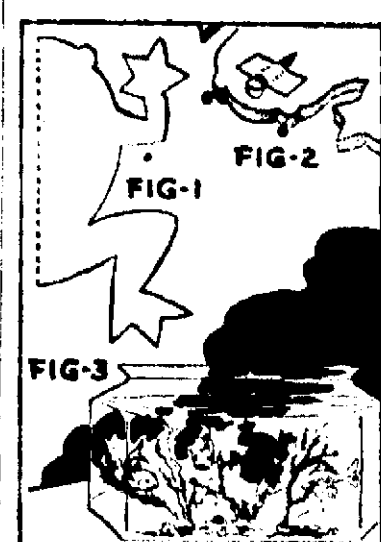

BY CAPPY DICK

Here is how to make a diving green frog that looks very real in a vase of flowers or a fish bowl.

He's made from a piece of flat cork. The pattern for his body appears in Figure 1, which is one half of him, the dotted line being the fold in the piece of paper. Draw the half on the paper, then cut through both thicknesses. Unfold the paper and you'll have the complete pattern.

Place the pattern on flat cork (a small, cork table mat will provide enough cork for half a dozen frogs). Trace around the pattern then cut the cork with scissors.

Because this is a diving frog, it must be weighted. Figure 2 shows how to do this. First press a round-headed pin lengthwise into the cork where the frog's eyes should be. Next, attach a thick screw to the head with adhesive tape. When you place the frog in water, it should not sink to the bottom, but float head down.

Cut body of frog out of flat piece of cork.

several inches below the surface as in Figure 3. If it doesn't, you must add or subtract weight at its head.

Finally, cover the entire frog with melted green wax crayon. Soften the crayon only enough

Man to Share Inheritance With Friends

Owensboro, Ky. —(U)—A publicity-shy former British soldier, chief beneficiary of a $13 million estate, says he'll get a big kick out of helping his friends and charities with the money.

Henry Edward Baker said "we just want to be left alone quietly with our friends," after the inheritance was disclosed yesterday.

Mrs. Jessie McCoy Nutty left a major share of her $1,503,455 estate to Baker. She was the widow of Gale R. Nutty, former president of the Gulf Refining company. Mrs. Nutty died last August.

Baker will receive half Mrs. Nutty's Gulf holdings, worth $634,465, plus other items such as furnishings and art treasures.

Baker, now 68, met Nutty in 1926 at a party in London, so it can be smeared thickly on both sides of the frog, including the edges.

(Copyright, 1958)

England in 1919 while working for an oil company.

Hit It Off Fine "We hit it off fine. I liked him and he liked me," Baker escorted the oilman around Europe and came to this country in 1926 at Nutty's invitation as confidant and private secretary.

When Nutty died in 1939, Baker continued as secretary to Mrs. Nutty. He became an American citizen in 1927 while living in Pittsburgh and moved here in 1932.

"I intend to remain in Owensboro and continue to work. I can be a little more generous with the charities in which I have been interested. I can help my friends who are in need and I'll get a big kick out of it."

Baker belongs to no clubs and has an unlisted telephone. "I have an aversion to publicity and photographers. I guess I inherited that from Mr. Nutty," he said.

The couple has no children.

Burses Will be Slim After Food Shopping

Food Prices Still Continue High in Both Meat and Produce Departments

The food situation is unchanged this week and the shopper is going to have to look hard to find a bargain. Meat prices remain high, except for a special here and there, while most fruits and vegetables continue on upper levels.

From behind meat counters come the opinions that prices won't be coming down for some time although the department of agriculture says pork will undergo heavier marketings from now through March. That's because farrowings last June and July were up 10 per cent over the same period of previous years, the department reports.

In Appleton, pork roasts range upward from about 55 cents, chops range from 79 to 89 cents and pork steak ranges from 55 to 59 cents a pound, the same prices they've been commanding for the last several weeks.

About the best buys in the meat line are chuck ranging from about 45 cents a pound upward, frying chickens from 39 to 47 cents, and ham roasts from about 59 cents a pound.

A sampling of other prices shows spare ribs at 55 cents, veal roasts at 65 cents, lamb shoulder roasts at 65 cents, rib roast from 79 to 89 cents, round steak from 85 to 89 cents, veal chops at 89 cents and sirloin steak from 90 to $1.00 a pound.

Still holding the best protein buy title are eggs, with a dozen Grade A large tagged from 51 to 55 cents.

It's still the frosts in Florida that are being blamed for high produce prices, but it's the California navel oranges tagged at 98 cents a dozen.

Good Eating With Danish Meat Balls

Those of Scandinavian ancestry will probably recognize the name Frikadeller as meaning Danish Meat Balls.

Ground beef and veal combine with cooked mashed potatoes, chopped onion, egg, milk and seasonings. This mixture is then divided into about 32 meat balls using 2 tablespoons per ball. The veal and beef balls are then rolled in flour and fried in deep hot lard for five minutes or until browned.

Served from a chafing dish and accompanied by a typical sporgasbord array, these Danish Meat Balls will gain new flavor with guests or family.

Frikadeller

- 1 pound ground beef
- 1 pound ground veal
- 3 medium potatoes, cooked and mashed
- 1 medium onion, finely chopped
- 14 cups sifted enriched flour
- 1 egg, beaten
- 2 to 4 tablespoons milk
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1-3 cup lard

Lard for deep-fat frying

Combine ground beef and veal, mashed potatoes and chopped onion. Add flour and mix well. Add egg, milk, salt and pepper and stir until well blended.

Shape into 32 balls using about two tablespoons of mixture for each. Roll balls in flour.

Courtroom Drama Called Entertaining

'Witness for the Prosecution' at Viking Next Week

BY LILLIAN MACKESY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

"Witness for the Prosecution," the Charles Laughton-Marlene Dietrich movie up for six or seven Academy awards this year, is top drawer entertainment according to those who saw a screen preview Wednesday night at the Varsity theater.

The movie opens next Wednesday at the Viking theater.

From the standpoint of theater, "Witness" is one of the best movies to come this way—possibly because it comes by way of the stage and not an original movie script. The lines are quick and sharp, the action moves along and the plot builds in the manner of good theater. Somehow the actors seem to be enjoying their roles for the change, with the result that the audience enjoys watching the plot itself is no great shakes—a murder mystery centered in an English courtroom battle of legal wits, complete with suspense and a surprise ending.

It's the acting that makes the movie unusual with Laughton in the role of the brilliant barrister who fights to save the life of a man charged with murder, the role taken by Tyrone Power. Marlene Dietrich plays the feminine lead and her "acting" includes one obvious scene intended to display her celebrated, shapely legs. Co-mediennes Elsa Lanchester plays the comedy foil to barrister Laughton.

Comments of theatergoers were universal in their approval of the movie as excellent entertainment. Some called it as exciting as a Perry Mason mystery, others likened the plot to the great O. Henry works. Some were critical of the "ham" qualities of Laughton and La Dietrich in their emotionally pitched scenes, but that's way they act. It's Laughton at his best, with all the tricks of the theater comedy and drama brought out for the viewer.

English courtroom procedure, sly bits of humor, excellent characterization, a couple of interesting throwbacks and a rousing surprise ending all add up to good entertainment that prompted more than half the audience to call the show "terrific."

The net decline, he says, is about 2 per cent greater than last year at the same time. It is due, Gehrke believes, to either no orders or too big an inventory in most plants making metal products of all types.

There were about 1,300 registered job applicants at his office at the end of January, Gehrke reports. This is about 60 per cent more than in November and about 68 per cent more than a year ago at the same time.

Openings exist, or will exist, for skilled machine shop workers and experienced stenographers, Gehrke says. There are enough people in the market to supply the farm worker demand, he says.

Wednesday was the biggest day of the year for property tax collections, Appleton City Treasurer Ray L. Feuerstein reports.

The record, $329,506.28, came just two days before the Friday deadline for payment by property owners not electing the installment payment plan. Feuerstein's office, at city hall, will be open from 9 o'clock in the morning to 8 o'clock at night on Friday to take last minute payments.

The $329,506.28 Wednesday brought the total collection this year to $2,635,626.97, up $343,629.31 from the same time last year.

Brown County Bar Owner Sentenced On Morals Counts

A Brown county tavern owner drew three prison terms has been awarded a certificate Wednesday in Brown county of merit for his performance municipal court on charges of in the 1957-58 National Merit a morals offense, making lewd photographs and possessing pornography.

Al Stutzke, 61, who operated the Al's Musical Museum Bar on Highway 41 about seven miles south of DePere, was sentenced to two 5-year concurrent terms on the first two charges and a 1-year consecutive sentence on the pornography count. He admitted all three charges. Stutzke was arrested Sunday.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered for Mrs. Rose LaPine, 23, Fond du Lac, who admitted a morals charge. She told authorities that she paid Stutzke $700 in what she termed blackmail money.

Mrs. LaPine said she told her fiancé, Alex Barthuly, 23, Fond du Lac, and her brother-in-law, Rubin Sodke, 24, Oconomowoc, that Stutzke kept incriminating pictures in a metal box in the tavern.

Barthuly and Sodke face a preliminary hearing March 5 on charges of burglarizing Stutzke's tavern. They were arrested with the metal box, which also contained $1,165, outside the tavern by Brown county authorities.

Committee Sees Need to Expand State's Higher Education System

Madison — The state's highest educational planning agency is looking beyond present machinery for higher education within the state to assure more future opportunities for the student of merit and ambition.

A statement of principles of the coordinating committee for higher education, just adopted here, declares the state must look to "providing post-high school educational opportunities as widely over the state as is consistent with sound educational and financial considerations."

The statement is in general policy terms, but it clearly implies—together with other research studies—that the state must be prepared for additional investments in additional educational institutions in the higher education field.

Because the major cost of education to the student comes when his training must be had away from home, said the committee's declaration, "the welfare of the student and the best served by a wider distribution of school facilities."

The statement of principles was adopted by the committee simultaneously with its receipt of a research report. It showed a direct relationship between the geographic availability of after high school training to the proportion of high school graduates in most localities continuing their education in college.

The coordinating committee is a planning and budget making group for the existing state-supported higher educational services, including the University of Wisconsin and state colleges.

It is composed of representatives of the governing boards of both systems and currently is headed by President Wilbur Rens of the University of Wisconsin regents. Rens in several public statements lately has hinted his own convictions that the state will be obliged in the future to provide more schools to meet its historical service obligations.

New Setback Line Fixed on E. Glendale

An appeal from a city zoning restriction has resulted in a new setback line on E. Glendale avenue from N. Owaissa street east to the lot just east of N. Charlotte street.

The new setback line is 53 feet from the center of E. Glendale, the board of appeals ruled, because the existing line would cause unnecessary hardship and practical difficulty and would violate the purpose and intent of the ordinance.

Building Inspector Walter Bogan said the change results from an appeal by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Lembcke, 1401 E. Glendale. The Lembckes own one of three houses which were unintentionally built in violation of the old setback requirement.

Want to Sell The Lembckes sought the change because they want to sell the home and need the setback point cleared, it was reported.

The trouble stems, Bogan said, from relocation of E. Roberts street 25 feet north of its original line. When this was done, the city gave 10 feet south of the old line to abutting property owners but kept 15 feet to protect water facilities which Claims State Tax Structure Hurts Industry Growth

Milwaukee — Sam A. Casey, director of the Public Expenditure Survey of Wisconsin, said Tuesday night that state and local tax structures have an adverse effect on industrial expansion in Wisconsin.

The alternatives to revising tax structures or adding a sales tax are still higher income and property taxes, Casey said. "We can have economic growth only if we face problems and make improvements the time for action is now," according to Casey who is executive vice president of the Nekeosa Edwards Paper company of Port Edwards.

Wisconsin has a "clear disadvantage in the tax setup but an equally clear advantage in governmental integrity and service," Casey told a dinner meeting of the Northwest Taxpayers league.

He called the individual state income tax and the personal property tax the two greatest deterrents to economic development.

Big Problems Must be Solved Before Man Flies to Mars

By Joe Lewis

Flagstaff, Ariz. —If you think a trip to Mars is just around the corner, Dr. Earl C. Slipher has a word of caution for you.

Despite Sputniks I and II and Explorer, it may be 50 years before man is ready for a flight to Mars, says Dr. Slipher, director of the Lowell observatory, where the International Mars committee makes its headquarters.

At present he adds, the task of propelling a space ship to Mars seems almost insurmountable. Man would need a fuel vastly more efficient than those now available.

If such a trip were possible, here are some of the problems Dr. Slipher believes would confront a traveler to Mars:

"Temperatures in space would range from 2,000 degrees above to 300 degrees below zero, depending on which side of the space ship faced the sun. The ship would have to keep rotating in order to maintain even temperatures within.

"The space traveler would be endangered by flying meteors and exposure to radiation from cosmic rays, about which we still know very little.

Crowded Conditions
"There would be the problem of supplying human needs in a space ship jam-packed with scientific instruments during a trip that probably would take two or three years. And there also would be the problem of a safe landing."

After landing, Dr. Slipher says, the space traveler would find Mars resembles a "particularly barren portion of the Gobi desert." The red planet is dry, virtually cloudless and coated with sand and dust.

Its reddish hue is caused by disintegration of rocks, a constant oxidization which soaks up the planet's dwindling supply of oxygen. Travelers would need oxygen masks because the atmosphere would be as thin as that atop Mt. Everest, the highest point on earth.

Mars is plagued by vast dust storms unsurpassed in size or intensity by any storms on earth. It has no major bodies of water, not much water vapor and only brief rain storms. Temperatures range from 70-80 degrees above zero in the daytime to minus 90 at night.

Gravity Far Less
The force of Martian gravity is only three-eighths that of the earth. A star athlete who could high jump seven feet on earth could surpass 18 feet on Mars.

But, Dr. Slipher adds, Mars is similar to earth in some respects. Both planets have four seasons though they last six months on Mars. This is because of the planet's extremely elliptical (egg-shaped) orbit. It takes 687 days for Mars to orbit around the sun.

Both Earth and Mars belong to the "terrestrial group" of planets—those which have solid bodies and hard cores. Both have atmospheric blankets which include oxygen and water vapor. Both are about three billion years old.

In fact, Dr. Slipher says, Mars may forecast what the earth will be like in a billion years because "Mars is smaller than earth and has run through its life cycle much faster. It is rapidly becoming a dead planet."

Dying Planet
"It is losing its atmosphere. If there is or has been life on Mars, its chance for continued existence diminishes with time because Mars, as a planet, is on the downgrade."

mosphere, suspended in space—something like the moon.

If life exists on Mars, Slipher explains, it would be only in its most elemental form. The climate and soil can support only the hardiest vegetation. There is reason to believe that Mars has vegetation, Slipher says, because of its dark regions which change color with the seasons, indicating growth of plants in summer and decay during the long Martian winter.

Slipher says astronomers still don't know the answer to the mysterious "canals" sighted on Mars.

"It's generally agreed that something exists in the canals," he explains. "But contrary to science fiction, there's nothing to substantiate a belief that the canals were made by intelligent beings."

Astronomers were hampered in their attempts to learn more about Mars last November, during one of the planet's closest approaches to Earth, 35 million miles away. A vast dust storm arose covering 600,000 to 800,000 square miles of the planet and obscured observation.

The International Mars committee when Mars will be some 42 million miles away.

Honey Creek Man Wins Award for Thwarting Abduction

Racine —The Racine County Safety council gave its Frank Starbuck award Tuesday night to Robert Hughes, 30, Honey Creek, for heroism in thwarting the attempted abduction of a neighbor's son.

Scott Vrchota, 6-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Vrchota, was dragged into a stranger's car on a road near Burlington last July 6.

Hughes witnessed the incident, jumped into his auto and pursued the abductor.

Hughes was hit by gunfire, but his pursuit apparently prompted the abductor to halt

Hughes was given a wrist-watch and a plaque. The safety council said Hughes "exemplified outstanding bravery and self-sacrificing good citizenship."

House Group for Cutting Down on Defense Positions

Washington —Three top-ranking members of the house military affairs committee Wednesday introduced a bill cutting 14 assistant and deputy secretary posts and 1800 other jobs from the defense department.

The measure would strengthen the position of the secretaries of the individual services.

The bill proposes a defense department reorganization leaving substantially intact the present joint chiefs of staff system, in which uniformed heads of the various services act as a committee for over-all strategic matters.

The secretaries of the army, navy and air force would not be restored to the cabinet, from which they were dropped in 1949, but they would be made statutory members of the national security council, the top-ranking defense planning organization.

In addition, the bill would direct the comptroller of the defense department to limit his control over the services strictly to fiscal matters and not undertake to pass judgment on military estimates of what is needed.

Mr. Glenn H. Arthur, Adv. Director,
APPLETON POST CRESCENT
Appleton, Wisconsin

Dear Sir:

As we approach our tenth anniversary in the music business, it seems an appropriate time to acknowledge our indebtedness to the POST CRESCENT for their part in our success story.

Naturally, we wished our consolidation of 3 stores into one, at 308 E. College Avenue, to be highly publicized and in choosing the POST CRESCENT as our principal medium of publicity, we surely made no mistake.

Our Removal Sale advertising and the Grand Opening of the store at 308 E. College Avenue brought an unprecedented number of old and new customers to the store. Well over 2000 persons were present. The vastly increased space has made it possible to add a most complete Record Department, and the savings effected thru the uniting of the 3 small stores has made it possible to offer many services heretofore quite impossible.

The far-reaching effects of the POST CRESCENT are constantly apparent as hardly a day passes without an inquiry about pianos and organs from distances of 50 to 75 miles.

A hearty "Thank You" to all on the POST CRESCENT for a job well done, and particularly to Mac Stringham and to Henry Starck of your staff. Their aid has been invaluable.

With kindest regards,

Appleton Is Site of State Film on Industrial Development Promotion

Appleton, itself probing the problems of industrial development, has become the site of a state-subsidized movie on the subject.

The location is appropriate. For, while this city finds itself involved in the throes of problems concerned in making itself attractive to industry, the film uses a mythical Wisconsin town to show how a grass roots movement can develop into a successful community-wide project.

Producer of the 20-minute color and sound film destined for showings throughout the state is Rudy Swanson Productions, Inc., and most of the activity is taking place in the firm's studio on Highway 41 across from Butte des Morts Golf course.

Seven professional actors from Chicago mingle with about 25 local people, the latter appearing in a town hall crowd scene, and while 5,000 watt lights burn down upon them, Director Swanson ambles about the set shouting suggestions, moving pieces of furniture and conferring with his associates at the side lines.

Background of Project
Sitting along the edge of the set are Robert Koob, Madison, director of the state division of industrial development, and Hugh O'Brien, a member of the public relations firm handling the promotion end of the project. From them comes the background of the project:

"This is the first such film being produced for the state and, as far as we know, the first such movie produced in the United States. We're anticipating a large demand for it when it's released, probably some time next summer, and we'll be distributing it free upon request—even outside the state."

"We're trying to get across the importance of industries to communities and we want to show the impact industries have on the economics of a town. The whole purpose is to create a greater awareness of what can be done and what a town must do to prepare for industrial expansion."

Awareness of Industry
Work on the film began in December, shortly after the legislature appropriated $100,000 to promote industrial development within the state.

As part of the program, it is hoped the movie, as yet unnamed, will create an awareness of the importance of industry within the state, improve the industrial climate in Wisconsin and promote Wisconsin nationally.

Because of the interest many state communities have shown in industrial development procedures, the state division anticipates a great demand for the film.

Koob notes 168 communities already have formed development groups of some sort and 15 or 20 other communities have Chamber of Commerce development committees.

"These groups have been very active and have done a good job of selling their communities," Koob goes on. "Now the state realizes the activity and is anxious to give selling aids and assistance to the areas."

Main action of the movie, told in story form, centers about a community which feels it's on the downgrade. Young people are moving to other areas or out of the state for jobs and economic activity seems to be at a low point.

Grass Roots Work

Through the work of local residents, a committee is formed to participate in wooing new industries to the area. It also takes an active part in making the territory attractive for expansion of local industry and the immigration of non-local concerns.

Principal actors were recruited after try-outs in Chicago and all have been active in radio, television or movie work during their careers.

Local figures, drawn from several of the Fox Cities, will be recognized in the crowd scene but none will have speaking parts, according to the script.

The Swanson concern was chosen by the public relations firm, O'Brien states, because of the company's background and experience in the shooting of industrial films.

'Believe in America' Proposal Wins Applause

Paterson, N.J. — A proposal by newspaper publisher Harry B. Haines to help combat the recession with a "Believe in America" campaign has drawn favorable comment from the governors of four states and both of New Jersey's senators.

Haines, publisher of the Paterson Evening News, outlined his plan to halt the business slump in a front page article in yesterday's edition. The article appeared under an 8-column headline that declared: "America is now in the throes of a psychosomatic slump."

Haines dispatched telegram to the governors of all 48 states and letters to congressional leaders urging them to proclaim a "Believe in America week."

Counterfeiters' Idea Is No Money-Maker

Carbondale, Ill. — Francis Warren Adams and Clifford P. Rowe needed money and so they made it. Trouble was the secret service caught up with them.

The pair of counterfeiters were seized when State Trooper Donald Gibbons stopped their car near Springfield because it had only one license plate. Gibbons saw Adams stuff something under the front seat. Gibbons found $2,340 in bogus bills and $620 in genuine money under the seat. Both men signed written confessions. Adams told officers he made about $15,000 of bogus money in $10 and $20 denominations in a basement workshop.

Increased Defense Spending to be Sought

Washington — Secretary of defense McElroy said Wednesday the administration soon will ask another stepup in defense spending.

The Pentagon chief told the senate watchdog preparedness subcommittee that plans for high priority military hardware will boost the initial $40 billion defense budget asked by President Eisenhower early this year.

McElroy said details should reach congress "within the next few weeks."

He listed expanded production of the long-range jet B52 bombers and their jet tankers, the K135s, as items that must be accelerated.

The Decision That Needs No Explanation!

There are relatively few personal decisions a man can make that command the unanimous approval of his friends and acquaintances.

And among these is his choice of a Cadillac car.

For the things that inspire a man to Cadillac are simply too numerous to be overlooked.

Considered from a standpoint of its beauty—or its Fleetwood luxury—or its performance—or its craftsmanship—or its soundness of investment—Cadillac occupies a position entirely its own.

At the heart of this great goodness is, of course, Cadillac's experience in the creation of quality cars.

For more than half a century, Cadillac's sole concern in the manufacture of its products has been to make them as fine as automotive science would permit.

It is out of this unique constancy of purpose that has come Cadillac's international recognition as the Standard of the World.

We invite you to see, both in the showroom and on the highway, how brilliantly this latest Cadillac exemplifies all of these great traditions.

Whether you might choose the Sixty-Two Coupe or the Eldorado Brougham—you will find your decision beyond the realm of argument.

Test of a Businessman's Administration

Politically and emotionally, the Eisenhower administration is on the spot. And so, of course, is the Republican party.

It is part of the mythology of our times that the Republican party represents mainly businessmen while the Democrats are the party "of the people." Furthermore the Great Depression of the 1930's is still fixed in the public mind as having somehow been caused by Republican policies, while the prosperous period that began following World War II is credited, however unfairly, to the administrations of Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry Truman.

Thus any Republican administration must fear trouble on the economic front more than anything else that might befall it. There is little doubt that should the current business slump become worse the Republicans' chances of regaining control of Congress next November will be very slim.

The administration's problem is made even more difficult in that if it is to carry out its responsibility to the country and to the Republican party it must proceed very cautiously in taking action to help the economy. If the Democrats were in office they would be under no such obligation, for their party's philosophy would permit them to immediately launch huge spending programs and let future generations worry about such problems as inflation, devaluation and possible government bankruptcy.

This administration already has been through a similar period, and its caution with respect to demands that it institute inflationary policies to curb the business downturn in 1954 turned out to be very beneficial for the country. Had Mr. Eisenhower and his associates become panicky at that time, had they heeded the appeals of such Democrats as Sen. Paul Douglas for spending programs there is little doubt that the inflation of 1955-57 would have been far worse than it was, and that today's recession would be considerably more dangerous.

But there is a great deal of psychology in these matters, and the Republicans must be politically as well as economically smart. Mr. Eisenhower probably shuddered the other day when Herbert Hoover gave a speech in which he urged self-reliance and that sort of thing on the people, and then revealed it was the same speech he had given in 1931. Every similarity between present economic conditions and those of 1929-32 — fortunately such similarities are very few — serves only to frighten the public, and feed the Democratic propaganda machine.

In other words Mr. Eisenhower must walk a tightrope, maintaining his grasp on fundamental conservatism which protects the real values of the people, yet shunning the blind loyalty to outworn economic dogma that led the Republicans and the nation into catastrophe a quarter century ago. All thinking Americans, we believe, will wish him well.

May Judges Seek Federal Office?

Do Wisconsin judges have the right to seek any elective office, other than a judicial office, during the term for which they are elected? This question has come up in political campaigns again and again over the years, and is bound to be argued again this summer if Justice Steinle runs for the United States Senate.

Justice Steinle has resigned from the state Supreme Court effective March 2, and has indicated he will announce whether or not he will seek the Senate office after his resignation becomes effective. Obviously he is avoiding any political announcement until he is off the bench.

Article 7, Section 10 of the Wisconsin Constitution provides that judges of the supreme court or circuit courts "shall hold no office of public trust, except a judicial office, during the term for which they were respectively elected, and all votes for either of them for any office, except a judicial office, given them by the legislature or the people, shall be void."

Section 258.02 (2) provides that "The judge of any court of record in this state shall be ineligible to hold any office of public trust, except a judicial office, during the term for which he was elected or appointed."

How is it, then, that the late Joseph McCarthy, a circuit judge, was elected to the United States Senate and reelected in spite of the provisions of the Constitution and the statutes?

If a Wisconsin judge should seek election to a state office, other than a judicial office, he would be excluded from the office by the plain provisions which make judges ineligible and make all votes for such candidates void. But the congressional offices, both Senate and House, are federal offices and are not subject to Wisconsin law.

The Constitution of the United States sets out who may become a representative or a senator, and judges are not among those excluded. The federal Constitution says:

The times, places and manner of holding elections for senators and representatives, shall be prescribed in each state by the legislature thereof; but the Congress may at any time by law make or alter such regulations, except as to the places of choosing senators.

From this it is plain that the Constitution has by no means yielded to any state the right to set up prohibitions on who may seek these federal offices. Finally the Constitution says, "Each house shall be the judge of the elections, returns and qualifications of its own members."

There can be no doubt but that the Wisconsin Constitution and the statutory provisions limiting the right of judges to seek election to public office apply only to state offices. Furthermore it must appear that those who claim Wisconsin judges cannot seek federal office are trying to stretch the provisions of Wisconsin law to cover matters over which the state has no jurisdiction.

Can't Substitute Methods for Information in Educating Child

BY GEORGE SOKOLSKY
(Copyright, 1958)

I have never received mail on any subject that is equal in size or in intelligence as has come concerning education. That there is a general dissatisfaction with teaching training and supervision is witnessed by the fact that many teachers complain that teachers' colleges are so devoted to techniques that they have forgotten that the teacher ought to know what she is teaching. In this connection, I quote from a letter from a teacher:

Sokolsky

"... I had loved the university, I had loved to study; but, last summer I had a very unpleasant time at the school of education. I found that the courses had no intellectual content, that they were definitely not challenging, and that a colossal has arisen in American education, a colossal that is self-perpetuating and thoroughly obnoxious. The courses were filled with vagaries and slogans, such as 'we teach the child, not the subject' I had no idea what this kind of highly obscure writing means; I still don't. The first few weeks I tried to read my texts and to do a good job at the courses, but I was soon completely disillusioned; I did no work at all, but I passed with B's. It is a standing joke around the campus — no one fails an education course. The colossal I speak of is this: no value is placed on information, only on methods of teaching. These methods are all theory and are couched in a kind of artificial technical terminology designed to mystify the laity..."

How valuable? Methodology is, I suppose, of some value but how can it be a substitute for knowing the content of a subject? History, for instance, is one of the most difficult subjects to teach, because if properly taught, it is not a matter of names, places, and times but of ideas, forces and movements that influence human thought and action. History is the account of things that happen and the effect of those happenings upon human beings. If there were no such effects, the events would not be important to us.

To know history, even to teach it to young people, requires competent reading in philosophy, literature, economics, sociology and anthropology, apart from history. To each modern history, one needs some knowledge of the natural sciences. This, then, is no dry-as-dust subject.

The teachers' colleges became so absorbed in methods and in the psychology of the child that they forgot that a teacher does not just teach; she teaches a subject and ought to be required to know that subject with sufficient competence to inspire the student's interest. Granted that methodology has its value, the subject is the thing.

Of course, religious prejudice is not unusual anywhere and appears in many forms in the United States. It often is aimed particularly at Catholics and Jews, but educated men and women ought to know better and ought not to permit their minds to be cluttered with the rubbish of ages. The least a teacher can do is to avoid passing on to children gossip as demonstrable fact.

New York State Fight
A fight is looming in the New York State legislature on the subject of the Ten Commandments. It is permissible to post in classrooms the wisdom of Sacra-tes. Of Confucius, of Voltaire and even of Karl Marx; but it is not permissible to post the Ten Commandments to remind the children of the moral law.

The opponents of the Ten Commandments contend that to remind children that it is God's law not to murder and steal is to violate the American constitution, particularly the first amendment which has nothing to say about the separation of the state from morality. As the school authorities do not wish to get into controversies, they are opposed to posting the Ten Commandments even as a pin-up. So those who favor giving the children an eye-opener that it is wrong to commit adultery have gone to the legislature to have a law passed making it permissible for a school board to post the Ten Commandments. The bill is encountering some opposition.

It would seem that beaten-up school teachers and the parents of raped and otherwise pregnant daughters would demand that the school bring a little morality into the classroom. Only the American Legion, which has made this bill a part of its "back to God" program, is pushing it.

THE FACTS

Both Wisconsin political parties recently have chosen new state chairmen.

The Republicans switched chairmen most recently. The news dispatches were solemn. Their length provided the emphasis. Readers probably got the notion that here was a very important event. A very powerful office had been put into new hands, front page pictures and all.

There is no intention here to disparage the importance of the event. It was important, symbolically at least. For whatever the meaning and the importance of the majority party's campaign organization, it is the only organization in existence and as such its internal problems take on consequence.

But the new chairman of the Republicans in point of actual fact has fewer members he can depend on than the president of the Wisconsin Federation of Garden clubs. The commander of the state department of the American Legion, or the grand exalted ruler of the Elks lodge for Wisconsin, actually holds a higher place if numbers of dependable members are significant.

Statistics are lacking in this important field — strangely enough — but most close observers would be surprised if the voluntary Republican organization had 10,000 actually functioning participants. In point of probable fact, the Democrats of the state are better organized today, on paper at least. The chances are that their actuality is superior, too, if only because they have the vigor of youth and the challenge of a party "on the make," so to speak.

THEN AND NOW

Given the ease of communication today and superior resources in every other respect, the party organization of 1958 is undoubtedly less effective than it was a generation or two earlier.

This chronicler was brought up in an era of "picture on the mantle" politics, to make a phrase, of big rallies in the ball park, and deep-rooted local partisanship and political organization. Politics was a vital and important thing in village square conversation. The tariff was a living argument, and not a phrase in the newspaper. The leader of the community had political views. Everybody knew them, and he gloried in them.

These are different times. The political debate at the cocktail party today only distresses the hostess. The electronically syndicated comedian has replaced the political leader in the awareness of the public. Politics and politicians mirror the times.

He urges people to use "courage and common sense" to halt the recession. Well, that should answer the folks who've been asking what they're supposed to use for money.

Wife: "I see Mamie has a husband who flies her 3,000 miles for a beauty treatment, but the cheapskate I got won't even buy me a two bit magazine to read under the drier."

New Jersey's Gov. Meyner says Ike ought to take Harry Truman to the summit with him. You get those two fellows together on the summit — and somebody's going to get shoved off.

Republicans accuse Harry Truman of "dime-a-dance" oratory. That's inflation for you. In the old days, the Republicans wouldn't give a nickel for anything Harry said.

First Republican: "What do you think of Ike flying Mamie out to a beauty ranch?" Second Republican: "He may be the first statesman who ever hung himself on one of Elizabeth Arden's chin straps."

Britain accepts American missile bases. There'll be no inter-service rivalry either. The army will supply the rockets, the navy the ships — and the air force the public relations.

Telulah Park Dangerous Site for Swim Pool

Editor, Post-Crescent:

At what site the south side pool? After a visit to the golf course site Feb. 11, the following day Mayor Roemer and the pool committee announced their approval of the area and were to recommend it to city council as their choice. On Feb. 18 the committee announced they were now considering the possibility of the Telulah park site for the pool.

Why? Because of some pressure of Mr. Wonsler circulation petitions against the golf course site? Let's see how groundless the claims of the petitioners are.

The first, that the site is not large enough, was proven wrong when the pool committee itself claimed the area as being large enough. That the land was needed for successful operation of the golf course—I'm sure the park board who offered the land for the pool must feel that they can operate the course without it, or they wouldn't have made the offer.

Now, for the danger of flying golf balls. No. 14 tee, which is to the north, so no danger there; also, No. 13 green is between 45 to 50 yards from the north boundary of the site, and I've never seen anyone overshoot that green on the fly by that much as long as I've played golf; No. 3 tee is far to the west and also doglegs to the right away from the area, so the danger of flying golf balls is about as great as the danger of Mr. Wonsler being hit by a flying sputnik.

As far as offering the Telulah park site, it was once decided against, being too far east. Also, let's look ahead. The new high-level bridge is being built next year, which will make County Highway Z one of the main arteries coming into Appleton from the east. Also, a while back, the long-range plan was announced for a direct route from Highway 35 south of Kaukauna, bypassing Combined Locks and Kimberly, and connecting to Z coming into Appleton. This will make a very dangerous and heavily traveled highway which our children would have to cross to get to the pool if it were in Telulah park. This would be a real danger, not one dreamed up like Mr. Wonsler's.

I, too, am a golfer, playing around 20 times a year, and I still think there is room for the pool and enough for us golfers to play in also.

Were You on Coat of Arms Sucker List?

From The Milwaukee Journal

Not long ago, the mail brought an offer of a recording together with a sales pitch that went something like this: We've gotten hold of a mailing list that proves you're a sucker. How about biting on this one? You'll get more of your money's worth than some things you've been hooked on.

Now comes an outfit that sells coats of arms. It's a thorough list, because every one of the occupants of a row of six offices has been offered his family's coat of arms, in water colors on antique paper together with his family name in old English. And for just $10!

The price isn't bad, except that a careful poll of the gentlemen who were offered the coats of arms casts some slight doubt that their families ever had any. Descendants of Pennsylvania Dutch farmers, Irish who spelled their names three ways (if they could write at all), etc.

Anyway, we long ago invented our own coat of arms: A fat escutcheon with a sable and/or (back and gold) field centered by a rare steak, dormant. The supporters are a bottle of scotch and a corona shaped cigar. It has no wreath or banderol.

We have no intention of abandoning this coat of arms for one built about a lot of suckers—rampant.

Menasha Traveler Describes Tourist Sights, Beauty Spots of New Zealand

BY JEAN WILEY THICKENS

New Zealand — The 5-day stop at New Zealand has been the outstanding part of this cruise so far. No one could have had more misconceptions of this glorious land than your reporter.

The land was first settled by the Maori who came from Samoa at least a thousand years ago. They traveled the 600 miles in small open boats. They settled here and were living a peaceful existence until the arrival of the whalers from the United States and Britain, who contaminated them with the white man's diseases and vices. Not until the arrival of the missionaries in 1830 did order return to the land. In 1840 the British and Maori signed a treaty of peace which has been maintained to this day.

There is no color bar and the Maori are well educated, hard-working and law abiding. The people in New Zealand have all the benefits of free education, free medical service, old age pensions and many of the benefits enjoyed in the United States.

Middle Class Land
There is no great wealth nor any real poverty in the land; they definitely are a middle class country. The people work a 40-hour week and refuse to work overtime, no matter what the inducement. They don't seem to crave wealth, but rather prefer to enjoy the advantages that are free in the lovely country.

There are magnificent beaches, some of the finest skiing in the world; there are beautiful lakes and rivers stocked with many kinds of fish and the duck and deer hunting is excellent. In most of the towns and resort areas there are golf courses, tennis courts and bowling greens.

Except for its two big cities of Auckland and Wellington, New Zealand is a rural country. It has some of the finest dairy cattle in the world, mostly Jerseys, it raises Black Angus beef cattle and the sheep census for this year totals 39 million.

The people are friendly, informal and eager for visitors to like their country.

Glowing Cave
One of the most unique and exciting sights on the overland motor tour was the visit to the Glow Worm cave. Descending a few hundred feet below ground by way of a winding dirt trail, we came to a small underground river. Here we climbed into a small row boat and in the dark were propelled by our guide for about 15 minutes. Suddenly the Glow Worm groto burst into view. The entire roof of the groto is covered with millions of glow worms which actually lit up the cavern so that we could see the others in the boat.

If one makes a noise, talks, laughs or coughs loudly, these glow worms flash off their lights with the speed of switch-lighting off an electric flashlight. In the eerie darkness we sat spell-bound for a moment until our guide quietly paddled our boat back to the starting point.

The Maoris believe these twinkling glow worms are the spirits of their departed ancestors, consequently they consider the cavern a holy place.

Another day was spent in the spectacular thermal region, where we stopped to view the pools of boiling, bubbling volcanic mud, steaming vents in the earth, spouting geysers and lovely waterfalls. It is reminiscent of our Yellowstone park, but much more extensive.

The most unusual sight was the blow hole, a vent in the earth which is 15,000 feet deep. It was discovered by the Maoris 600 years ago. The hole spouts dry steam, the only place in the world where that occurs. The temperature of the steam is 238 degrees Fahrenheit.

Near this thermal region are several Maori villages. The natives use the hot bubbling springs for cooking their food, washing their laundry and bathing.

In the center of one village we found a round pool of warm water in which dozens of small children were playing while their parents bent over cooking pots set on steam vents, cooking their supper.

Free Hot Water
Also in this area one sees signs reading "thermal plumbing" and it is here that householders pay to have the hot water piped into their homes. After that, their hot water is supplied free by Mother Nature.

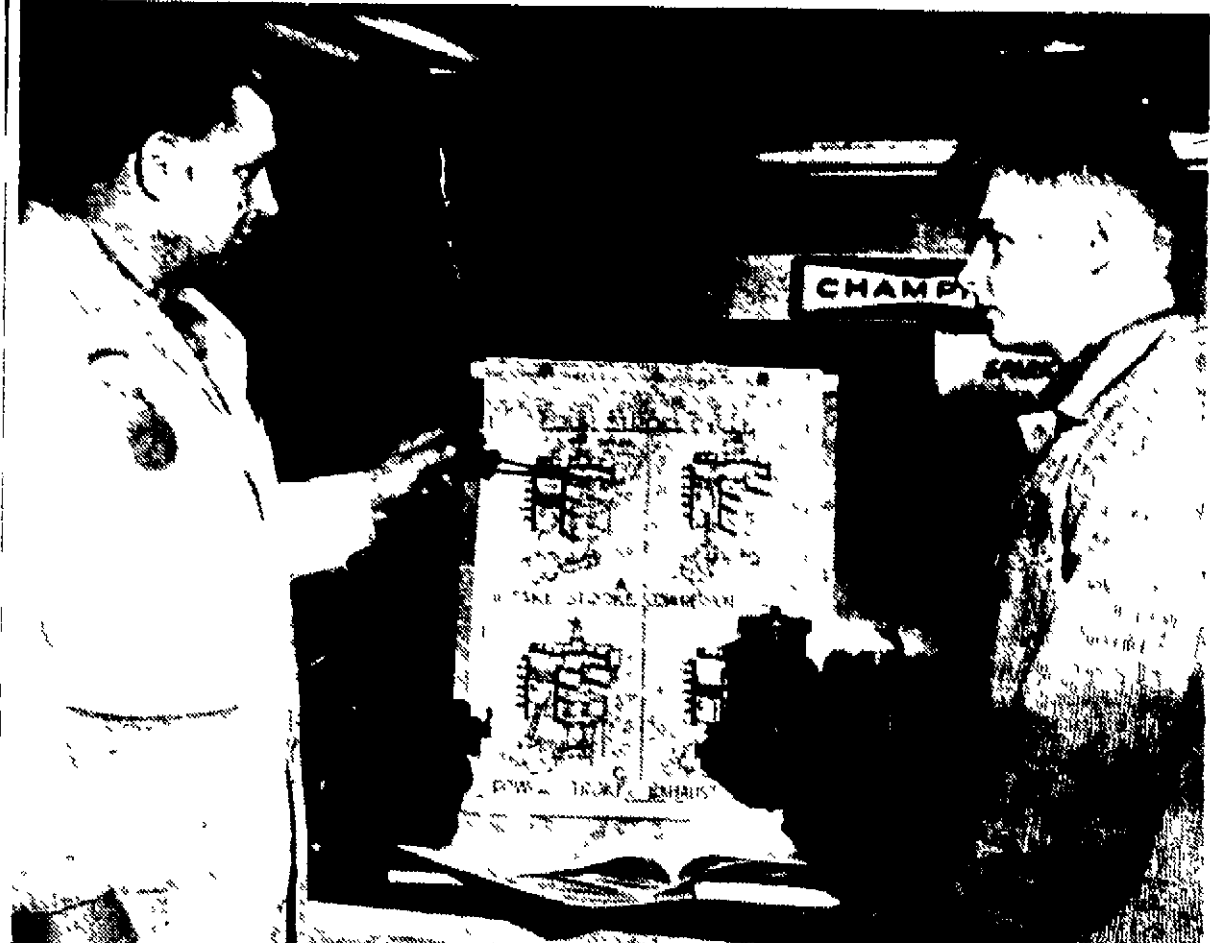

The roar of the blow hole can be heard for miles. Scientists claim that but for this escape hatch for internal pressures of the earth, the country would have been blown to the skies long ago. The government is building a power plant in this area with the financial assistance of Great Britain and the United States. The project will ruin the area as a tourist attraction, but it will supply the rural communities of New Zealand with much needed power.

This smiling, fertile land has unlimited possibilities for commercial development. This is a country that can appeal to the young and ambitious as a place in which to settle and grow up with the land.

Squirrel Puts Squirm Into Solemn Organist
Indianapolis — Members of the congregation at Calvary Lutheran church were aghast when they observed organist A. C. Schwark bouncing around on his bench while playing solemn hymns.

Later Schwark explained a squirrel had been hiding in the organ and started running up his pants leg when the music started.

Lower Tolls
Halifax, N.S. — Car drivers now pay 30 cents toll instead of 40 to cross the MacDonald bridge between Halifax and Dartmouth. Prices were reduced Jan. 1 because of increased traffic. The fee is 25 cents if commuter tickets are purchased.

Vocational School Plans Class on Power Mowers

A short course in power mower service and adjustment will be offered at the Appleton Vocational school beginning March 18, according to E. H. Funk, trades and industry coordinator.

Classes will deal with basic operation principles of 2 and 4-cycle gasoline engines. Studies include carburetors, ignition adjustments and general maintenance.

Whale Oil Used by Electric Company

Belleville, N.J. — Westinghouse Electric corporation has taken the odor out of whale oil at its laboratories here.

The oil is used to coat light bulb bases to prevent them from adhering to lamp sockets. Unhappily for employees who handle the bulbs, the oil smells. A staff scientist came up with the answer — a few drops of perfume to each gallon of whale oil.

Church Construction

Washington — Church construction set an all-time record in 1957, with $868 million of new building work done by American religious bodies. The figure was $100 million higher than in 1956.

1958 United Appeal Goal at $10 Million

New York — The goal for the 1958 United Appeal for overseas relief and reconstruction has been set at $10,400,000. Sponsored by Church World Service, the Protestant overseas relief agency, the appeal will be climaxed with observances on Sunday, March 16.

Rotted Money Found In Garden Good Enough for Exchange

Colbert, Okla. —(U.S.)— Bryan County Sheriff Raney Arnold said an elderly Negro woman found an undetermined amount of cash in her garden and mailed it to Cleveland for a relative to exchange for currency in good condition.

He said Mrs. Nancy Giles, 79, told him Tuesday she unearthed an iron box containing the money last August and mailed it to her daughter-in-law, Osie Johnson in September.

Mrs. Johnson told federal authorities in Cleveland Tuesday when she turned in the money that she delayed exchanging it so long because she had been ill.

Arnold said Mrs. Giles, who lives alone in her 4-room home here, related she didn't count the money because it was so rotten. Postal authorities in Cleveland said it was good enough, however, to be exchanged.

Green Bay Man Given $34,200 Award in Rail Accident Case

Milwaukee —(U.S.)— A U.S. District court jury awarded a railroad conductor $34,200 Tuesday for injuries suffered in a railway crossing accident in January, 1955.

Anton W. Koeppler, 58, Green Bay, suffered a broken leg and other injuries when he was hit by a car while he was directing traffic at a Chicago and North Western railway crossing in Gillett.

The jury directed that the motorist, Frank Mueller of Gillett, and Mueller's insurance company should pay Koeppler $26,500.

Koeppler also will receive $5,200 from the railroad.

The remaining $2,500 represents the amount the North Western paid for Koeppler's medical bills. The jury decided Koeppler need not repay his employer for the medical expenses.

Miss Peach Goes to College— Comic Used in Teachers' Panel

A panel of grade school teachers brought "Miss Peach" into a college classroom to illustrate six types of problem children with whom teachers must cope. The class was "Workshop in Elementary Education," conducted by Professor Lester Dix at Brooklyn college, Brooklyn, N.Y. The 67-page report of the teachers was entitled "Mental Hygiene in Relation to Discipline."

Enlargements of "Miss Peach" comic strips were placed before the assembled grade school teachers. The report dealt in depth with six specific disciplinary types: the aggressive child, the withdrawn child, the defiant child, the phobic child, the frightened child and the attention-getting child. The humorous strips were used to depict quite seriously the situations covered by the report.

Teacher Lillian Weiss, who delivered the report on the aggressive child, used a "Miss Peach" page in which the children have painted a mural of the solar system. Stuart, the planner of the project, is being praised. Ira, atop a ladder, throws a tantrum. "How about me!" he cries. "Don't I get any credit? ... No human being has ever painted a rocket ship at this altitude before! ... I demand to have my praises sung a little, too!"

Needs Recognition

The aggressive child, the report stated, "needs to feel that the teacher recognizes his good qualities and approves of them even though his behavior will be curbed. Children deprived of rightful attention at home tend to regard with distrust any adult who shows a personal interest in them, and it takes a longer time for the teacher to convince them of her appreciation. Any legitimate outlet for expression, such as dramatics, opportunity for leadership or special tasks will help these children in learning to exercise control when necessary."

Miss Weiss concluded, however: "So far, my program has not been too successful. The remedies prescribed will work for a few minutes and then Larry (a problem boy in her class) will resort to his aggressive behavior once again."

To illustrate the withdrawn child, teacher Frances Harrison chose a recent "Miss Peach" strip in which the children are complaining that Arthur doesn't join in school activities. Two ladies ask Arthur, "Do you go to school, sonny?" Arthur replies, "Yes, but not actively."

In the case of such a child, the teacher should first of all get expert advice, states the report. Meanwhile, the teacher must build up the child's confidence. The rules: "1. avoid scolding; 2. avoid any penalty which may seem harsh to the child or may hurt or embarrass him; 3. do not call on him suddenly or require him to perform before the whole class; 4. discover his interests and cultivate them; 5. send him on personal errands, if they don't involve too much responsibility; 6. be patient, progress is likely to be slow."

Optimistic Note

Miss Harrison's case history concluded on a more optimistic note. "Gloria has been progressing slowly but surely," she stated. "If she continues to have guidance in socializing, and in self-confidence, she will participate uninhibitedly in school and out of school."

The defiant child is typified, according to teacher Robert Klastorin, in a "Miss Peach" strip of last May. Miss Peach, showing movies in class (a lion), cautions, "Please, children! We don't need any sound effects!" Whereupon, each child gives his version of the lion's roar.

The case history, used by Klastorin, involved more serious breaches of discipline by a troubled Negro lad named Gregory. "The teacher may have to use some disciplinary action on the defiant child," states the report. "The power of her position is used to prevent the activity and to thwart the immediate purposes of the child. It is also recommended to substitute desirable forms of behavior for those that are undesirable."

School Phobia

"The use of hobbies can also be the keynote to the defiant child's control. Through his actual wanting to participate in a particular hobby of his, he can be helped toward adjusting his disobedient behavior to that of a more socially acceptable one."

Prognosis: "Gregory is slowly but surely climbing up the ladder."

The child afflicted with school phobia is exemplified by the "Miss Peach" page in which the children are laughing at Ira for being scared stiff of bugs. He is ever on the lookout against locust plagues and driver ants. Miss Peach chides the kids for making fun of Ira, telling them to try to understand how he feels. Ira, shadowed by a swarm of bees, had run home and hid in a clothes closet. Still he wasn't safe. "I was attacked by moths," he cries.

Teacher Al Lerner, who delivered the report on the phobic child, recommended the mother remain in class with the child as long as necessary. In the instance cited, that of Joyce who had clung to her mother and refused to let her leave, "as long as necessary" was five weeks.

Reasons for school phobia:

"1. new baby; 2. unfortunate experience — mother threatening to leave home; 3. fear of family break-up"

The frightened child is Arthur. In the illustrative "Miss Peach" strip, the announcer at a school show is saying: "For our next act, we asked Arthur to dress up in a silly costume and do a foolish dance with Francine. After much persuasion, the little trooper finally agreed! — So here they are, Arthur and Francine!" The curtain rises on Francine alone — looking toward the wing with a tear in her eye.

Ask For Guidance

First thing to do for the frightened child, stated teacher Tanya Leasef who chose the strip for this portion of the report, is to call in the guidance counselor at school. Conferences with the parents and visits to the home follow. Miss Leasef reported that, with the child in her class, she built up his confidence as much as possible, treating him with concern and tenderness, lavishing praise on him. She has had "a little success."

The attention-getting child, as demonstrated in a "Miss Peach" strip, is Freddie, who leans bodily through the school library stacks, gesticulating wildly, to shout to his friends, "The funny ones are over here!"

In this case, as in all the other cases, reported teacher Sandra Garber, a search for the causes is imperative. The rejected child, quarreling parents, the broken home are situations frequently encountered in the search.

Art is one of the recommended outlets for the attention getting child. Painting and modeling give him a chance to accomplish something, to rid himself of tensions. Whittling, balsa wood, play therapy, encouraging the child to talk it out, and working with the parents are other suggestions for teachers.

Ticket, Ticket
Who's Got the Ticket?
Oklahoma City — Dan Hollingsworth, manager of the Oklahoma City Safety Council, attended a municipal meeting to study the ticket-fixing problem and help city workers find the child to talk it out, and parking without getting traffic tickets. When he went out to his car, it was ticketed for overtime parking.

Parking Lights Not Enough, Policeman Says
Denver — Gilbert R. Carrel, chief of the Colorado Highway patrol, says it should be a punishable offense to drive only with parking lights during times of reduced visibility. "If it is dark enough to justify the use of any lights, you need headlights, not parking lights," Carrel said.

Here's an Excitingly Unusual Presentation of lentil fish. Make fresh grapefruit sections the flavor heart of the stuffing of baked fish. The combination of the fish's flavor with that of the tart-sweet fruit is a new flavor sensation.

Lenten Special

Grapefruit Stuffing Enhances Baked Fish

Meet the golden grapefruit in a brand new role—that of banisher of lentil menu boredom!

Everyone is well acquainted with the grapefruit's versatility. You've served it in dozens of ways—right through the day—from a juicy half as a breakfast waker-upper to fresh grapefruit segments as the flavor heart of dinner salads and fresh fruit desserts. Has it occurred to you to team the tangy fruit with the ubiquitous lentil fish?

Fresh grapefruit brings to fish's flavor the same sort of lift that makes fresh lemon such a popular fish accompaniment. With grapefruit the flavor lift is in an added pungency and a sly, provocative hint of sweetness.

In Baked Fish with Fresh Grapefruit Stuffing, the baking brings out the fruit's aromatic depth.

Baked Fish With Grapefruit Stuffing

2 pounds whole bass, blue fish or other baking fish

Salt and ground black pepper

1 cup finely chopped celery

1 tablespoon finely chopped onion

2 tablespoons butter

2 cups toasted bread cubes, measured after toasting

1 cup fresh grapefruit sections

1 teaspoon chopped fresh parsley

1 teaspoon salt

1 teaspoon crumbled whole thyme leaves

1 teaspoon ground black pepper

12 fresh grapefruit sections

1 tablespoon butter

Wash fish, wipe dry and remove bones for easier stuffing and eating. Split fish open and lay out flat. Beginning at tail with a sharp pointed knife, loosen flesh close to bone along one side. Turn and loosen flesh on other side. Then remove backbone, being careful not to cut through the skin. Pick up small bones.

Rub inside with salt and ground black pepper. Sauté celery and onion in two tablespoons butter. Blend in next seven ingredients.

Spoon into body cavity of fish. Close openings with skewers. Place in a buttered baking pan. Cut three gashes over the top to prevent splitting. Insert a slice of bacon in each. Bake in a preheated moderate (310 degree) oven one hour.

Remove from oven and arrange five or six grapefruit sections over top. Brush with butter. Place under broiler for a few minutes to brown top. Garnish with remaining sections.

Village Council Quiet for 25 Minutes

Columbus, Ohio — When the village council in nearby Grove City observed 25 minutes of silence recently, it was not out of respect. Divided over a contract matter, councilmen refused to call it quits, although apparently no one had anything left to say.

The councilman who finally seconded a long-standing motion to adjourn handed in his resignation as he walked out the door.

Sweet Potato Souffle Makes Fine Party Fare

BY EDITH M. BARBER
Northerners feel they are very fond of sweet potatoes, and many of them are inclined to use them occasionally as a substitute for the standard white potatoes. They do not feel it necessary to identify the latter when they go to the market and order "just potatoes."

The opposite is quite likely true in the south, as when a young woman arrived as a bride in New York she found that, instead of the expected sweet potatoes, her order had been filled with "plain old Irish," as she described the substitute. Now that she has lived in New York for some time, she conforms to the custom of this section of the country.

Of course, candied sweet potatoes seem to be popular everywhere. They are a little sweet for my taste, but I do like baked candied sweets when the raw potatoes are sliced and baked in a casserole with brown sugar and butter. Because the potatoes are shredded, they take only a short time to prepare in a moderately hot oven.

A sweet potato souffle is a very good choice for a party meal to serve with any type of meat, particularly with ham or chicken. It will take about an hour to bake. By the way, if the amount of sugar indicated in the recipe is increased two or three times, it can serve as a dessert and—in this case—should have a fruit or a custard sauce, or whipped cream to be used with it.

Sweet Potato Souffle
2 cups cooked mashed sweet potatoes
1 cup hot milk
3 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon allspice
1 teaspoon ground cardamom seed
4 tablespoons sugar
2 egg yolks
2 egg whites
Combine sweet potatoes, hot milk, butter, salt, allspice and cardamom seed and two tablespoons sugar, and mix well. Beat in egg yolks.
Whip egg whites until they stand in soft peaks and fold in remaining two tablespoons sugar. Fold egg white mixture into potato mixture.
Pour into ungreased 1-quart

The Law and You

Parental Responsibilities Aren't Ended With Divorce

Children have a right to look to their parents for support, and that right does not end when the parents are divorced. The Wisconsin Supreme court has pointed out children are not parties to a divorce suit, and their rights are not ended by the suit.

Often a divorced father agrees readily enough to support money for his children, even though the mother is given custody of them. But he feels this should not continue if either he or his wife remarries.

The legal fact is that he will find himself in serious difficulty if he and his new wife will usually want to start a family of their own. But the father cannot say to his former spouse, "I have a new family to support now. You'll have to take care of the old one by yourself."

His obligation to the children of his first marriage continues, no matter how big his second family becomes. His new wife, in effect, has only a second mortgage on her husband's support money. This may very well mean the mother should consider carefully before she says "yes" to a proposal from a divorced father.

Just as the father is not freed of the duty to support children when there is a divorce, neither is the mother. When the amount of the father's support payments is determined, the court takes into consideration the fact that he must have enough left for his own needs and to give him the incentive law.

Sharp as a Macaroni

Stanardsville, Va. — The "seasoning" in Mrs. W. T. Gen-try's macaroni dinner proved a little too sharp. While eating the macaroni she felt a sharp pain in her throat. A straight pin was removed.
